SHANGHAI, China, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Americans and other foreigners were on their way to places of safety today from various points along the Yangtze valley where the Chinese are in an ugly mood.

Two hundred and fifty refugees, mostly missionaries, are enroute from Hankow, present seat of the Cantonese government. Hankow was the scene of violent anti-foreign rioting early in January.

Sixty-seven are coming on the American destroyer Preston from Nanking, the site of the recent rioting and naval bombardment.

The Preble, another American destroyer, has gone up the river from Shanghai to take off small groups of Americans at Kiangyin and other lesser ports below Chinkiang.

A group of foreigners boarded American and British destroyers at Chung Kiang, in Szechwan province, after the police had been called to protect them from Chinese mobs.

Friction is reported between the Chinese and foreigners at Changsha, Huan province, also in the Yangtze valley.

Taking Up Tracks Would Make Street Paving More Expensive.

Street car and bus patrons and property owners of north Lincoln opposing the Lincoln Traction Co.'s application for authority to take up its abandoned tracks and trolley system on the North Twenty-third street line voiced a vigorous protest at the hearing Saturday before State Railway Commissioners Randall and Miller.

SAY CHAPPELL HAS OPINION IN OFFICERS' CASE

ASK TRANSFER TO ANOTHER JUDGE

WITHDRAW OBJECTIONS.

County Attorney Max Towle informed the committee at 1 o'clock the results of his conference.

"He will be all right," Mr. Towle asserted.

And this statement was echoed by J. J. Thomas, head of the committee, who had also seen Judge Chappell in the meantime.

Judge Chappell stated, Mr. Towle said, that he had expressed no definite opinion as quoted by County Attorney Matzke of Seward, and that he does not have any preconceived notions on the officers' guilt or innocence of manslaughter in connection with the death of William Gade.

"All the examining magistrate has to do is to bind the accused over to District court," Mr. Towle explained, "and he is bound by the law in this case."

"That's right," Mr. Thomas said. "All I know about Chappell is that he is a square shooter and our protest would make him lean the other way if anything."

Preliminary hearings for the two men have not yet been set, Mr. Towle added, but will be arranged immediately. Richard Stout and Don Stewart have been acting as attorneys for the accused officers.

A request that preliminary proceedings against Walter Eaton and Robert Emery, former Lincoln policemen charged with manslaughter as the result of William Gade's death, be brought before some other judge than E. B. Chappell was made Saturday morning to County Attorney Max Towle by a Seward county citizens' committee.

"Judge Chappell told me positively a week ago that he did not think the officers should be bound over," stated Stanley Matzke, the Seward county attorney who was one of the committeemen. On the basis of this alleged expression of opinion, the request was made.

"I'm glad you told me that," Mr. Towle said and stated that he would see Judge Chappell today, inform him of the circumstances, and agree with him on further action. He would then meet Judge J. J. Thomas chairman of the committee, at 1 o'clock and report the result of the conference.

No Reflection on Judge.

The Seward county committee, appointed at a mass meeting in Seward Monday, was composed of the following persons:

APRIL 6 DATE EATON HEARING

Officer Charged With Manslaughter Pleads Not Guilty.

Accused Appear Voluntarily and Furnish $5,000 Bonds.

Walter Eaton and Robert Emery, police officers who are facing a charge of manslaughter for the killing of William Gade, young Seward county farmer, March 18, appeared voluntarily in municipal court Friday afternoon soon after the charges were filed. Each furnished bonds of $5,000.

Eaton was arraigned before Judge Chappell and pleaded not guilty to the complaint. His preliminary hearing was set for April 6. Sergeant Frank Towle of the police department and two Geneva persons, Fred Pickard and Mrs. Peter Youngers, were security for his bond. Eaton's boyhood home was in Geneva.

Emery furnished his bond and will be arraigned Monday at 9 o'clock. Alix Laverty signed the bond. Emery lives in University Place. He is married.

Walter Eaton came to Lincoln from Geneva Friday afternoon as soon as he heard of the complaint. He was accompanied by Robert Waring his attorney, who with Richard Stout, Lincoln lawyer, will defend the youthful officer.

William Gade was shot early on the morning of March 18 after he had refused to answer the officers' questions concerning why he came from a darkened house, and after he had led them an automobile chase from Twenty-second and Washington to Eighteenth and H streets. A coroner's jury last Saturday brought in a verdict that Eaton shot the youth while in the performance of his duty and without malicious intent.

SIX BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY CUSHING FIRE

(Special to The Star.)

CUSHING, Neb., March 26.—Fire destroyed six frame business houses in Cushing, Neb., early Saturday morning resulting in a loss of between $25,000 and $30,000.

Cushing is a village of about 200 people in Howard county and today after half the business section of the town had been destroyed was left with but one general merchandise store, a pool hall, a bank and a lumber yard.

Defective Flue Cause.

The blaze is believed to have originated from a defective flue in a pool hall owned by Jonas Lucht. When the fire was discovered by Cy Searly at 1:30 this morning the blaze was already well under way and flames were leaping from the top of some of the buildings.

Although the town has no protection against fire except a small chemical engine, residents were able to check the blaze in the middle of a block. The six buildings which were destroyed were all frame and burned to the ground within an hour and a half after the fire was discovered.

About half of the estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damage is thought to have been covered by insurance.

Structures destroyed were: a double building owned by Jonas Lucht; Tuna Brothers garage; and general merchandise stores belonging to Amos Petersen and Clark Sherman.

In one half of the Lucht building is a pool hall, and rooms in which Mr. Lucht and his family live. A dance hall, garage and the city lighting plant are all housed in the other half of this building.

Has Narrow Escape.

Mr. Lucht and Floyd Shenck were asleep in this building but the rest of the family were not at home. Mr. Shenck was forced to escape through a window clad only in his night clothes.

The Petersen family also live in the rear part of their general merchandise store. They were able to save most of their household goods.

The village post office is housed in Clark Sherman's general merchandise store. The mail was saved as were part of the post office fixtures and temporary offices have been established. Mr. Sherman plans to rebuild at once.

GOVERNOR SAYS BANKS MUST PAY

Believes Omaha Concerns Should Not Escape Their Taxes.

Governor McMullen may take it upon himself to introduce a bill amending the intangible tax law to force certain Omaha banks to pay their taxes if the legislature fails to pass the Senate substitute for S. F. 39, he indicated Saturday morning.

"The senate bill, I believe, covers the needs adequately, and should be passed," the governor said. "We cannot allow these banks or any other individual or concern escape their taxes."

The bill now before the senate strengthens the law considerably and should make it more workable, the governor believes. It removes any contention of discrimination between private capital competing with banks and the banks.

Questioned regarding the proposed repeal o fthe entire law, as demanded by some legislators, the governor said that the law should be tried two more years. If it is then found inadequate and unworkable, it should be repealed and all property be put back on the hundred per cent valuation basis with some provision to force report of intangible property to assessors. He noted that the federal government obtains reports of intangibles for the income tax law, but he offered no definite method for adoption by the state.

Senator E. R. Purcell has introduced a bill to repeal the intangible tax law. Sentiment in the senate Friday during discussion of S. F. 39 indicated that a dozen or fifteen votes could be gathered for such a bill, with a fair chance that might pass that branch, forty mem-

Within a few minutes after the decision was reached to send an additional regiment of marines, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant, announced that the men would be drawn from eastern stations, at Quantico, Va., New York, Boston and Paris Island, S. C.

SAY CHAPPELL HAS OPINION IN OFFICERS' CASE

ASK TRANSFER TO ANOTHER JUDGE

WITHDRAW OBJECTIONS.

County Attorney Max Towle informed the committee at 1 o'clock the results of his conference.

"He will be all right," Mr. Towle asserted.

And this statement was echoed by J. J. Thomas, head of the committee, who had also seen Judge Chappell in the meantime.

Judge Chappell stated, Mr. Towle said, that he had expressed no definite opinion as quoted by County Attorney Matzke of Seward, and that he does not have any preconceived notions on the officers' guilt or innocence of manslaughter in connection with the death of William Gade.

"All the examining magistrate has to do is to bind the accused over to District court," Mr. Towle explained, "and he is bound by the law in this case."

"That's right," Mr. Thomas said. "All I know about Chappell is that he is a square shooter and our protest would make him lean the other way if anything."

Preliminary hearings for the two men have not yet been set, Mr. Towle added, but will be arranged immediately. Richard Stout and Don Stewart have been acting as attorneys for the accused officers.

A request that preliminary proceedings against Walter Eaton and Robert Emery, former Lincoln policemen charged with manslaughter as the result of William Gade's death, be brought before some other judge than E. B. Chappell was made Saturday morning to County Attorney Max Towle by a Seward county citizens' committee.

"Judge Chappell told me positively a week ago that he did not think the officers should be bound over," stated Stanley Matzke, the Seward county attorney who was one of the committeemen. On the basis of this alleged expression of opinion, the request was made.

"I'm glad you told me that," Mr. Towle said and stated that he would see Judge Chappell today, inform him of the circumstances, and agree with him on further action. He would then meet Judge J. J. Thomas chairman of the committee, at 1 o'clock and report the result of the conference.

No Reflection on Judge.

The Seward county committee, appointed at a mass meeting in Seward Monday, was composed of the following persons:

Officer Charged With Manslaughter Pleads Not Guilty.

Accused Appear Voluntarily and Furnish $5,000 Bonds.

Walter Eaton and Robert Emery, police officers who are facing a charge of manslaughter for the killing of William Gade, young Seward county farmer, March 18, appeared voluntarily in municipal court Friday afternoon soon after the charges were filed. Each furnished bonds of $5,000.

Eaton was arraigned before Judge Chappell and pleaded not guilty to the complaint. His preliminary hearing was set for April 6. Sergeant Frank Towle of the police department and two Geneva persons, Fred Pickard and Mrs. Peter Youngers, were security for his bond. Eaton's boyhood home was in Geneva.

Emery furnished his bond and will be arraigned Monday at 9 o'clock. Alix Laverty signed the bond. Emery lives in University Place. He is married.

Walter Eaton came to Lincoln from Geneva Friday afternoon as soon as he heard of the complaint. He was accompanied by Robert Waring his attorney, who with Richard Stout, Lincoln lawyer, will defend the youthful officer.

William Gade was shot early on the morning of March 18 after he had refused to answer the officers' questions concerning why he came from a darkened house, and after he had led them an automobile chase from Twenty-second and Washington to Eighteenth and H streets. A coroner's jury last Saturday brought in a verdict that Eaton shot the youth while in the performance of his duty and without malicious intent.

SIX BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY CUSHING FIRE

CUSHING, Neb., March 26.—Fire destroyed six frame business houses in Cushing, Neb., early Saturday morning resulting in a loss of between $25,000 and $30,000.

Cushing is a village of about 200 people in Howard county and today after half the business section of the town had been destroyed was left with but one general merchandise store, a pool hall, a bank and a lumber yard.

Defective Flue Cause.

The blaze is believed to have originated from a defective flue in a pool hall owned by Jonas Lucht. When the fire was discovered by Cy Searly at 1:30 this morning the blaze was already well under way and flames were leaping from the top of some of the buildings.

Although the town has no protection against fire except a small chemical engine, residents were able to check the blaze in the middle of a block. The six buildings which were destroyed were all frame and burned to the ground within an hour and a half after the fire was discovered.

About half of the estimated $25,000 to $30,000 damage is thought to have been covered by insurance.

Structures destroyed were: a double building owned by Jonas Lucht; Tuna Brothers garage; and general merchandise stores belonging to Amos Petersen and Clark Sherman.

In one half of the Lucht building is a pool hall, and rooms in which Mr. Lucht and his family live. A dance hall, garage and the city lighting plant are all housed in the other half of this building.

Has Narrow Escape.

Mr. Lucht and Floyd Shenck were asleep in this building but the rest of the family were not at home. Mr. Shenck was forced to escape through a window clad only in his night clothes.

The Petersen family also live in the rear part of their general merchandise store. They were able to sav most of their household goods.

The village post office is housed in Clark Sherman's general merchandise store. The mail was saved as were part of the post office fixtures and temporary offices have been established. Mr. Sherman plans to rebuild at once.

GOVERNOR SAYS BANKS MUST PAY

Believes Omaha Concerns Should Not Escape Their Taxes.

Governor McMullen may take it upon himself to introduce a bill amending the intangible tax law to force certain Omaha banks to pay their taxes if the legislature fails to pass the Senate substitute for S. F. 39, he indicated Saturday morning.

"The senate bill, I believe, covers the needs adequately, and should be passed," the governor said. "We cannot allow these banks or any other individual or concern escape their taxes."

The bill now before the senate strengthens the law considerably and should make it more workable, the governor believes. It removes any contention of discrimination between private capital competing with banks and the banks.

Questioned regarding the proposed repeal o fthe entire law, as demanded by some legislators, the governor said that the law should be tried two more years. If it is then found inadequate and unworkable, it should be repealed and all property be put back on the hundred per cent valuation basis with some provision to force report of intangible property to assessors. He noted that the federal government obtains reports of intangibles for the income tax law, but he offered no definite method for adoption by the state.

Senator E. R. Purcell has introduced a bill to repeal the intangible tax law. Sentiment in the senate Friday during discussion of S. F. 39 indicated that a dozen or fifteen votes could be gathered for such a bill, with a fair chance that might pass that branch, forty mem-

ENGINEER SAYS CITY OWES HIM

Suit Against Municipality of McCook Now in High Court.

To enforce collection of $23,109 which he claims to be owing from the city of McCook under a contract employing him as consulting and special engineer for paving and sewer construction, Irvin R. Morearty is appealing to the Supreme court of Nebraska, having failed to get judgment in the District court of Red Willow county.

The contract, he says, was made in June, 1925, to run for 1 year. It provided that Morearty should receive 5 per cent of the cost of the projects planned and supervised by him, as his commission. He was paid only a small part of the sum he claims to be due, and sued for the remainder.

In resisting the claim, the city pleaded that Morearty had been duly appointed as city engineer in April, 1925, at $4 per day, not to exceed $300 a year, as provided by law; that he took the oath of office and served in that capacity; that he did not perform his work properly, failed to provide some prospective bidders with blue prints, favored others by divulging information to them, and permitted inferior materials and workmanship to go into the projects under construction.

Man in Prison 20 Years for Killing Young Girl Dies

John G. Hamblin, who died at the state penitentiary Friday morning, had spent more than twenty years in that institution serving a life sentence for shooting Rachael Engle, 14-year-old Grand Island girl. He was senttneced to death, but that sentence was commuted to life by the supreme court.

Hamblin worked for a Grand Island contractor and boarded at the home of his employer, the step-ather of the girl who was killed. One evening while the girl was on her way to attend a carnival, Hamblin stepped up and shot her. The bullet struck her spine and she was paralyzed. She was in a hospital for several months and then died.

Although death was ascribed to the bullet wound, Hamblin contended that it resulted from an operation performed on the girl, when a glass instrument being used by attendants was broken and lodged in the bladder. Hamblin claimed that he was not mentally responsible when he shot the girl. His mind, he said, was affected by the heat.

PIERCE, Neb., March 26.—(AP)—Mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Herman Kolterman in Denver, Colo., who had been reported missing since March 13, was cleared up yesterday when a message was received here to the effect that she is in a Denver sanitarium.

Following receipt of the message, Mrs. Kolterman's husband and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emil Schultze, both of whom live near Pierce, left for Denver.

In the message, addressed to her mother, Mrs. Kolterman explained that after she had left a Denver hotel in a taxicab she decided to go to a private sanitarium instead of a hospital, to await the birth of a child. She gave no reason for her silence since March 13.

Private detectives and Denver police, searching for the woman, had been unable to find trace of her.

SENATE SHOWS GREAT SPEED

The senate went ahead in high gear Friday afternoon and after suspending the rules and passing the senate substitute for H. R. 25, providing for the extension of the state highway system some 1,800 miles, it adopted a committee substitute for S. F. 39, amending the intangible tax law. With these two important measures practically out of the way the senate adjourned to 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The highway bill was reported out in the morning, taken up in the committee of the whole and advanced to third reading before noon an passed on third reading in the afternoon, completing the entire process which usually requires from three to five days in a single day.

House Group Favorable.

An effort was made to get action on the bill in the house before that branch adjourned over the week end but the house quit work before the arrangements could be completed. The house committee on highways is understood to be agreeable to the bill as it passed the senate.

When the bill is sent back to the house it will be in the amended form and it will be up to the house to concur in or reject the senate amendments. If the house fails to concur in the senate amendments conference committees will be appointed and the differences will be ironed out there.

The legislators admit that the unusual speed at which they are sending the bill through is for the purpose of getting the measure enacted before an avalanche of protests and petitions descend upon them from communities which have been left out of the system.

Considerable opposition developed when similar high pressure methods were used by the supporters of the intangible tax bill. Although the supporters explained that it is necessary that the bill be passed by both houses and be signed by the governor before April 1 if it is to accomplish the desired result, a number of the members wanted to make the bill a special order of business for Monday. They were out-voted and the bill was taken up in the committee of the whole and was advanced.

The chief purpose of the bill, it was explained, is to amend the law in such a way as will leave less of a loop hole for certain Omaha banks who have been fighting the payment of their taxes under the present law.

BANQUET CLOSES SPRING REUNION

Rev. John F. Poucher of Omaha was the principal speaker. His subject was "Free Government, Free Church, Free Masonry." He spoke in behalf of the American public school which he pointed out was unique in that it included people of every class.

The Rev. Mr. Poucher traced the connection of Masonry in regard to the foundation of this country. He pointed out that fifty-one of the fifty-six signers of the declaration of independence were Masons. And Masons today, he said in conclusion, are just as interested in good government as the earlier members of this fraternity.

Governor Adam McMullen was introduced and made a brief talk. Fred Cornell, secretary of Scottish Rite bodies, was also introduced, C. D. Traphagen made a few remarks as did William M. Stone, class orator. W. W. Burr, master of the consistory, introduced W. B. Ryons, who acted as toastmaster. Music was furnished by the DeMolay band under George S. Brinton.

BRYAN FIRM IN DECISION NOT TO RUN FOR MAYOR

The efforts of a special committee from the "Bryan for Mayor" mass meeting held at the Grand hotel Friday evening were in vain when it endeavored to secure his consent to file for mayor. Chas. W. Bryan expressed his deep regrets but reiterated his statement made Thursday.

While his statement of Friday evening was not a final one, he gave the committee no encouragement that he would make an eleventh hour filing. Petitions, the committee announced, with several hundred names signed were prepared and waiting for Mr. Bryan to file. The committee which waited on the former governor was composed of Mrs. C. A. Spencer, chairman, Mrs. Charles Seaman, Mrs. W. E. Stukesbury, John O. Chapman, R. E. Fenton and John S. Reed.

The meeting was attended by about thirty-five people, most of whom testified that Bryan was needed in the city hall today. In addition to the members of the above committee, Dr. J. D. Case, L. B. Frye, F. M. Coffey, F. W. Dale, F. J. Bentz, J. C. McReynolds and William Foster talked in Mr. Bryan's behalf.

Today

China on the Rampage.
Useless Record Breaking.
Guns for Sale.
Will She Die?

By Arthur Brisbane.

News comes from China not pleasant or reassuring. Many Americans killed, the British consul and a British missionary are shot. Britain and the United States serve an ultimatum on the Chinese, but that will not influence the revolutionists' determination to get rid of foreigners.

One Japanese marine was shot dead yesterday, while Japanese troops were rescuing European and American foreigners, and that death may have results. Japan must maintain her prestige in Asia.

But marching through crowds of passive Chinese in ordinary times is different from handling tens of millions in the heat of revolutionary frenzy.

Moscow rejoices wildly in Chinese talk of a world revolution, and foresees 140,000,000 Russian communists joining with 400,000,000 Chinese communists to "make the whole world communistic." That is going ahead a little rapidly.

The tail might like to wag the dog perhaps, but it never does. And Japan, the real Asiatic power, is far from communism.

In America, Chinese seem to have caught the excitement of the flowery kingdom. Wars between the Hip Sing and On Leong gentlemen broke loose yesterday in six cities, with six killed and two shot. In America, fortunately, the Chinese are considerate and usually shoot only Chinese.

Segrave, British, beat the world's automobile record yesterday, flying over the sands of Daytona beach in Florida at a speed greater than 166 miles an hour. His racing car, the "Mystery S," looking like a submarine on land, broke the American record by 10 miles an hour. It's an achievement interesting, but not useful. No automobile can go usefully 166 miles an hour, or 100 miles an hour.

The United States War department has sold 3,000 rifles, 200 machine guns, 3,000,000 rounds of ammunition to Nicaragua and gets $217,-718 in notes, bearing 6 per cent interest, a satisfactory financial arrangement. But suppose some of the 3,000,000 rounds of amunition accidentally kill women and children, as happens sometimes in South America and other quarrels. How will Uncle Sam feel about that? Couldn't we let our neighbors do their own killing and find the means of doing it?

Three women have been executed in New York state, Roxalana Bruce, who killed her husband, hanged in 1887. The second, Mrs. Martha Place, smothered her stepchild to death. Theodore Roosevelt, then governor, refused to interfere. In 1908, Mrs. Mary D. Farmer was electrocuted. Governor Hughes refused a commutation.

Now New York may have to decide about executing Mrs. Ruth Snyder, young blond, curlyhaired widow, aged 32, who recently confessed she helped another man to murder her husband.

She says she now loathes the man that did the killing. He seems to have borrowed a suggestion from his original ancestor, Adam. Friends say he was hypnotized by the woman whose husband he killed.

ANOTHER COMBAT WITHOUT DAMAGE BETWEEN SOLONS

Another bloodless combat between two members of the Nebraska house furnished the gallery Friday afternoon with a little extra entertainment Just when things were going along in rather sleepy fashion, Messrs. Hovis and Porter waked up the chamber by calling each other uncomplimentary names. Then they made some threatening motions at one another, but Sergeant-at-Arms Lundy, as usual, got there in time to save the disputants from the necessity of having to demonstrate their readiness to back up words with blows.

The exchange of compliments took place during discussion of a bill to increase the period of compulsory school attendance for pupils in rural and village districts. Porter took exception to a remark by Hovis implying that some farmers kept their children at home to do work which should be performed by mules.

The bill itself, H. R. 418, was subsequently killed. Its introducer, Mr. Kendall, said the county superintendent in Dixon county had drafted it.

After spending some time on a highway safety bill, H. R. 476, requiring signs at intersections, giving drivers from the right hand approach the right of way, and containing other features, the house laid it over without action and adjourned until 2 p. m. Monday.

BIRDS CONTRACT COLDS AND DROP DEAD IN FLIGHT

WATERTOWN, S. D., March 26.—(AP)—Hundreds of dead birds fell from the sky upon Watertown early yesterday while many of hundreds toppled from tree tops.

The phenomenom was explained by local naturalists as due to a sudden onslaught of bronichal trouble among a horde of migrating birds resembling the common English sparrow.

The birds, it was said, are arriving from a warmer climate, and contract severe pneumonia when they fly into snow storms or suddenly encounter much colder temperature.

Snow was falling here yesterday. Several persons reported seeing the birds fall from the enormous flocks and drop to the earth dead. Other birds, sick, managed to drop down to rest in trees, only to fall dead a few minutes later. The total number of bird casualties was estimated in the thousands.

MILLER TELLS OF FORD PLAN

Asserts Motor King Said He Wanted to Upset Sapiro's Plan.

Independent Editor Admits Receiving Retraction Demand.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A new reel in the long serial, 'Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford, for $1,000,000," was run off in Federal court Friday and the motor car manufacturer was represented for the first time as plotting directly against Sapiro, the individual, internationally known Jewish organizer of farmers and co-operative organizations.

To the very last, William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford owned Dearborn Independent, vehicle of the alleged libelous articles which Sapiro contends damaged his reputation and circumscribed his activities, maintained he alone was responsible for the Independent's articles and policy.

A moment after Cameron left the stand after six days there, Ford was put in a new light, however, by James Martin Miller, author of an authorized edition of 'The Amazing Story of Henry Ford."

"When was the first time you came to Detroit to interview Mr. Ford?" asked William Henry Gallagher, chief counsel for Sapiro.

"In 1920," replied the Washington newspaper man, adding that in 1923 he worked a year for the Dearborn Independent.

Ford Discussed Sapiro.

"Did Mr. Ford ever mention Aaron Sapiro to you?"

"Yes, he asked me if I knew Sapiro. I told him that I did not know Sapiro, but that I knew about him."

"What else did Mr. Ford say?"

"He said, 'Well, Sapiro and some other Jews are organizing the farmers and we are going to expose him; I think we can upset his apple cart'."

Upon cross examination, Miller was asked only one question by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of Ford counsel.

"You sat up that claim (that Miller had worked a year for the Ford organization) at Washington, and lost, didn't you?"

"I lost," Miller replied in a low voice.

"That's all," said Senator Reed, and the new witness was gone after five minutes of brisk new testimony, which lifted the trial from the depths of monotony into which it had fallen.

Senator Reed's question referred to a suit Miller brought in Washington against the Dearborn Independent Co. for alleged back salary and commissions, it was understood.

Cameron Takes Responsibility.

Cameron had been dismissed from the witness stand until such time as the defense could produce the original copy of Sapiro's demand for a retraction.

Cameron admitted that receipt of the formal demand for retraction was the subject of a discussion with Ford, but that in the end it resulted only in reiteration of the Ford 'formula'" for instructions to Cameron: "You're the editor."

"What did you say to Mr. Ford?" Gallagher asked.

Cameron stated that, as usual, the motor manufacturer dismissed or rather sought to dismiss the subject with a wave of his hand and application of the "formula."

Much of Cameron's final testimony was occasioned by Sapiro's counsel's questions as to possible discussions with Ford of the motor manufacturer and the Independent's attitude toward Jews; toward the activities of Jacob Schiff, Paul M Warburg, Otto Kahn and Lewis Marshall; toward "certain Jewish individuals" and toward an "international banking ring."

FIND NEW PLOT TO KILL SNYDER

Art Editor's Wife and Gray Planned to Use Gas and Poison Liquor, Police Say.

NEW YORK, March 26. —(AP)— Two developments in the Snyder-Gray murder case Friday turned the attention of the police from the two prisoners, Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, and their alleged confessions, to a bottle of poison liquor and a story of a disconnected gas tube.

The liquor was found, the police say, in Gray's suitcase in a hotel at Syracuse and was intended to have been used to kill Albert Snyder, the art editor, if he had drunk it.

The disconnected gas tube was regarded by police as strengthening their theory that the woman and her lover had devised several methods for getting the husband "out of the way" before final recourse was had to chloroforming, strangling and clubbing last Sunday morning.

A few weeks ago, neighbors, said the middle-aged editor ran from his house in Queens Village, gasping for breath, as gas was pouring from a disconnected tube in the house.

Mrs. Snyder, at the time, it is said, told inquirers that she had probably "accidentally kicked off" the hosing.

Gray tol dthe police that the story of the poisoned whiskey in the fear, the police believe, that some one might unwittingly drink from the bottle and die.

Mrs. Snyder's 9-year-old daughter Lorraine, Friday sat in a parked automobile in Jamaica gazing wistfully at a hospital in which she believed her mother to be. She did not suspect that her parent was in the grim gray jail across the street.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 26. —(AP)Chaplin Studios, Inc. one of numerous defendants named in the divorce suit of Lita Grey Chaplin, against Charlie Chaplin, Friday was dropped from the case, with the filing of notice of dismissals by attorneys for the film comedian's wife.

The notice of dismissal was explained by Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys as a part of a plan to remove "complicating technicalities" in the case and force it to an issue.

SENATOR BORAH SEES NEW CHINA

Believes Real Democracy Will Arise; Opposes Interference.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A plea to let China work out her destiny unmolested by the United States was voiced Friday night by Senator Borah in an address before the National Good Housekeeping conference.

Urging that America pursue a "hands off" policy in Chinese affairs, the senator, who is chairman of the important foreign relations committee of the senate, declared that he believed that out of the chaos of the Orient, would come "a permanent and real democracy, which will take its place among the nations of the world."

"I thank God that nationalism marched into Shanghai yesterday," he said, adding that the spirit which prompted the Chinese of today, was the same that impelled the American colonists in efforts for freedom.

King Assails Ruling.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Senator William H. King, democrat of Utah, declared last night that the refusal of the state department to have the order of President Borno barring him from Haiti withdrawn was "an effort to keep alive the fiction of Haitian independence" and had only served "to focus the attention of Americans upon the domination by this government of Haitian affairs."

In an interview at the Hotel Pennsylvania, after he had disembarked from the United States transport St. Mihiel, on which he came from Santo Domingo, Senator King said that, if the state department had so desired, it could have compelled the Haitian president to withdraw his order.

Senator King exhibited copies of the order and subsequent correspondence between Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, high commissioner in Haiti, and Gen. J. S. Burrel, American army officer in charge of the Haitian gendarmes, to prove that the final decision on the order rested with the American high commissioner.

EXTEND LOW HAY AND GRAIN RATES

Railroads Continue the Reduced Charges to Central Nebraska Until May 15.

Nebraska railroads have extended the privileges of the reduced rates on hay and feed and seed grains to farmers in central Nebraska counties until May 15, according to word received by C. B Steward of the Nebraska farm bureau federation.

Several months ago the railroads cut their rates in half on carload shipments of hay and feed and seed grains in order to enable the farmers in that part of the state which was hard hit by last yeaor's drouth, to obtain feed for their stock and seed for spring planting at lwer prices. Mr. Steward estimated that farmers in the counties benefitted have saved in the neighborhood of seventy-five thousand dolars so far, as a result of the cut rates.

The railroads originally planned to put these counties back on regular rate schedules on April 1, but were asked to extend the privilege. All seed grain needed has not been purchased, and farmers have not been able to lay in stores of feed grains to tide them over the early spring months because of dampness.

Extension of the cut-rate privilege will have to be eapproved by the state railway commission but that will be done immediately upon the filing of an application, it is understood.

ENGINEER SAYS CITY OWES HIM

Suit Against Municipality of McCook Now in High Court.

To enforce collection of $23,109 which he claims to be owing from the city of McCook under a contract employing him as consulting and special engineer for paving and sewer construction, Irvin R. Morearty is appealing to the Supreme court of Nebraska, having failed to get judgment in the District court of Red Willow county.

The contract, he says, was made in June, 1925, to run for 1 year. It provided that Morearty should receive 5 per cent of the cost of the projects planned and supervised by him, as his commission. He was paid only a small part of the sum he claims to be due, and sued for the remainder.

In resisting the claim, the city pleaded that Morearty had been duly appointed as city engineer in April, 1925, at $4 per day, not to exceed $300 a year, as provided by law; that he took the oath of office and served in that capacity; that he did not perform his work properly, failed to provide some prospective bidders with blue prints, favored others by divulging information to them, and permitted inferior materials and workmanship to go into the projects under construction.

John G. Hamblin, who died at the state penitentiary Friday morning, had spent more than twenty years in that institution serving a life sentence for shooting Rachael Engle, 14-year-old Grand Island girl. He was senttneced to death, but that sentence was commuted to life by the supreme court.

Hamblin worked for a Grand Island contractor and boarded at the home of his employer, the step-ather of the girl who was killed. One evening while the girl was on her way to attend a carnival, Hamblin stepped up and shot her. The bullet struck her spine and she was paralyzed. She was in a hospital for several months and then died.

Although death was ascribed to the bullet wound, Hamblin contended that it resulted from an operation performed on the girl, when a glass instrument being used by attendants was broken and lodged in the bladder. Hamblin claimed that he was not mentally responsible when he shot the girl. His mind, he said, was affected by the heat.

NEWSPAPERMAN BARELY ESCAPES DEATH IN NANKING

SHANGHAI, China, March 25.—(AP)—A British newspaperman, the Reuter correspondent at Nanking, had a thrilling escape from death during Thursday's anti-foreign outbreak.

He reached Socony hill, where other foreigners were congregated, and then decided to make a dash for the British cruiser Emerald, on which his wife had taken refuge.

Scrambling over the city wall, he was seized by a party of Cantonese They were marching him off to the execution ground when the first shell of the Anglo-American bombardment crashed on the hillside.

Escaping in the general confusion, the correspondent took refuge with Chinese friends. He cut off his moustache with a penknife, painted his face and hands yellow and dressed in Chinese clothes. Thus disguised, he reached the Emerald safely.

Mrs. Kolterman of Pierce is Found in a Denver Sanitarium.

PIERCE, Neb., March 26.—(AP)—Mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Herman Kolterman in Denver, Colo., who had been reported missing since March 13, was cleared up yesterday when a message was received here to the effect that she is in a Denver sanitraium.

Following receipt of the message, Mrs. Kolterman's husband and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emil Schultze, both of whom live near Pierce, left for Denver.

In the message, addressed to her mother, Mrs. Kolterman explained that after she had left a Denver hotel in a taxicab she decided to go to a private sanitarium instead of a hospital, to await the birth of a child. She gave no reason for her silence since March 13.

SENATE SHOWS GREAT SPEED

The senate went ahead in high gear Friday afternoon and after suspending the rules and passing the senate substitute for H. R. 25, providing for the extension of the state highway system some 1,800 miles, it adopted a committee substitute for S. F. 39, amending the intangible tax law. With these two important measures practically out of the way the senate adjourned to 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The highway bill was reported out in the morning, taken up in the committee of the whole and advanced to third reading before noon an passed on third reading in the afternoon, completing the entire process which usually requires from three to five days in a single day.

House Group Favorable.

An effort was made to get action on the bill in the house before that branch adjourned over the week end but the house quit work before the arrangements could be completed. The house committee on highways is understood to be agreeable to the bill as it passed the senate.

When the bill is sent back to the house it will be in the amended form and it will be up to the house to concur in or reject the senate amendments. If the house fails to concur in the senate amendments conference committees will be appointed and the differences will be ironed out there.

The legislators admit that the unusual speed at which they are sending the bill through is for the purpose of getting the measure enacted before an avalanche of protests and petitions descend upon them from communities which have been left out of the system.

Considerable opposition developed when similar high pressure methods were used by the supporters of the intangible tax bill. Although the supporters explained that it is necessary that the bill be passed by both houses and be signed by the governor before April 1 if it is to accomplish the desired result, a number of the members wanted to make the bill a special order of business for Monday. They were out-voted and the bill was taken up in the committee of the whole and was advanced.

The chief purpose of the bill, it was explained, is to amend the law in such a way as will leave less of a loop hole for certain Omaha banks who have been fighting the payment of their taxes under the present law.

BANQUET CLOSES SPRING REUNION

Rev. John F. Poucher of Omaha was the principal speaker. His subject was "Free Government, Free Church. Free Masonry." He spoke in behalf of the American public school which he pointed out was unique in that it included people of every class.

The Rev. Mr. Poucher traced the connection of Masonry in regard to the foundation of this country. He pointed out that fifty-one of the fifty-six signers of the declaration of independence were Masons. And Masons today, he said in conclusion, are just as interested in good government as the earlier members of this fraternity.

Governor Adam McMullen was introduced and made a brief talk. Fred Cornell, secretary of Scottish Rite bodies, was also introduced, C. D. Traphagen made a few remarks as did William M. Stone, class orator. W. W. Burr, master of the consistory, introduced W. B. Ryons, who acted as toastmaster. Music was furnished by the DeMolay band under George S. Brinton.

BRYAN FIRM IN DECISION NOT TO RUN FOR MAYOR

The efforts of a special committee from the "Bryan for Mayor" mass meeting held at the Grand hotel Friday evening were in vain when it endeavored to secure his consent to file for mayor. Chas. W. Bryan expressed his deep regrets but reiterated his statement made Thursday.

While his statement of Friday evening was not a final one, he gave the committee no encouragement that he would make an eleventh hour filing. Petitions, the committee announced, with several hundred names signed were prepared and waiting for Mr. Bryan to file. The committee which waited on the former governor was composed of Mrs. C. A. Spencer, chairman, Mrs. Charles Seaman, Mrs. W. E. Stukesbury, John O. Chapman, R. E. Fenton and John S. Reed.

The meeting was attended by about thirty-five people, most of whom testified that Bryan was needed in the city hall today. In addition to the members of the above committee, Dr. J. D. Case, L. B. Frye, F. M. Coffey, F. W. Dale, F. J. Bentz, J. C. McReynolds and William Foster talked in Mr. Bryan's behalf.

Today

China on the Rampage. Useless Record Breaking. Guns for Sale. Will She Die?

By Arthur Brisbane.

News comes from China not pleasant or reassuring. Many Americans killed, the British consul and a British missionary are shot. Britain and the United States serve an ultimatum on the Chinese, but that will not influence the revolutionists' determination to get rid of foreigners.

One Japanese marine was shot dead yesterday, while Japanese troops were rescuing European and American foreigners, and that death may have results. Japan must maintain her prestige in Asia.

But marching through crowds of passive Chinese in ordinary times is different from handling tens of millions in the heat of revolutionary frenzy.

Moscow rejoices wildly in Chinese talk of a world revolution, and foresees 140,000,000 Russian communists joining with 400,000,000 Chinese communists to "make the whole world communistic." That is going ahead a little rapidly.

The tail might like to wag the dog perhaps, but it never does. And Japan, the real Asiatic power, is far from communism.

In America, Chinese seem to have caught the excitement of the flowery kingdom. Wars between the Hip Sing and On Leong gentlemen broke loose yesterday in six cities, with six killed and two shot. In America, fortunately, the Chinese are considerate and usually shoot only Chinese.

Segrave, British, beat the world's automobile record yesterday, flying over the sands of Daytona beach in Florida at a speed greater than 166 miles an hour. His racing car, the "Mystery S," looking like a submarine on land, broke the American record by 10 miles an hour. It's an achievement interesting, but not useful. No automobile can go usefully 166 miles an hour, or 100 miles an hour.

The United States War department has sold 3,000 rifles, 200 machine guns, 3,000,000 rounds of amunition to Nicaragua and gets $217,718 in notes, bearing 6 per cent interest, a satisfactory financial arrangement. But suppose some of the 3,000,000 rounds of amunition accidentally kill women and children, as happens sometimes in South America and other quarrels. How will Uncle Sam feel about that? Couldn't we let our neighbors do their own killing and find the means of doing it?

Three women have been executed in New York state, Roxalana Bruce, who killed her husband, hanged in 1887. The second, Mrs. Martha Place, smothered her stepchild to death. Theodore Roosevelt, then governor, refused to interfere. In 1908, Mrs. Mary D. Farmer was electrocuted. Governor Hughes refused a commutation.

Now New York may have to decide about executing Mrs. Ruth Snyder, young blond, curlyhaired widow, aged 32, who recently confessed she helped another man to murder her husband.

She says she now loathes the man that did the killing. He seems to have borrowed a suggestion from his original ancestor, Adam. Friends say he was hypnotized by the woman whose husband he killed.

ANOTHER COMBAT WITHOUT DAMAGE BETWEEN SOLONS

Another bloodless combat between two members of the Nebraska house furnished the gallery Friday afternoon with a little extra entertainment. Just when things were going along in rather sleepy fashion, Messrs. Hovis and Porter waked up the chamber by calling each other uncomplimentary names. Then they made some threatening motions at one another, but Sergeant-at-Arms Lundy, as usual, got there in time to save the disputants from the necessity of having to demonstrate their readiness to back up words with blows.

The exchange of compliments took place during discussion of a bill to increase the period of compulsory school attendance for pupils in rural and village districts. Porter took exception to a remark by Hovis implying that some farmers kept their children at home to do work which should be performed by mules.

The bill itself, H. R. 418, was subsequently killed. Its introducer, Mr. Kendall, said the county superintendent in Dixon county had drafted it.

After spending some time on a highway safety bill, H. R. 476, requiring signs at intersections, giving drivers from the right hand approach the right of way, and containing other features, the house laid it over without action and adjourned until 2 p. m. Monday.

BIRDS CONTRACT COLDS AND DROP DEAD IN FLIGHT

WATERTOWN, S. D., March 26.—(AP)—Hundreds of dead birds fell from the sky upon Watertown early yesterday while many of hundreds toppled from tree tops.

The phenomenom was explained by local naturalists as due to a sudden onslaught of bronichal trouble among a horde of migrating birds resembling the common English sparrow.

The birds, it was said, are arriving from a warmer climate, and contract severe pneumonia when they fly into snow storms or suddenly encounter much colder temperature.

Snow was falling here yesterday. Several persons reported seeing the birds fall from the enormous flocks and drop to the earth dead. Other birds, sick, managed to drop down to rest in trees, only to fall dead a few minutes later. The total number of bird casualties was estimated in the thousands.

MILLER TELLS OF FORD PLAN

Asserts Motor King Said He Wanted to Upset Sapiro's Plan.

Independent Editor Admits Receiving Retraction Demand.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A new reel in the long serial, 'Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford, for $1,000,000," was run off in Federal court Friday and the motor car manufacturer was represented for the first time as plotting directly against Sapiro, the individual, internationally known Jewish organizer of farmers and co-operative organizations.

To the very last, William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford owned Dearborn Independent, vehicle of the alleged libelous articles which Sapiro contends damaged his reputation and circumscribed his activities, maintained he alone was responsible for the Independent's articles and policy.

A moment after Cameron left the stand after six days there, Ford was 'put in a new light, however, by James Martin Miller, author of an authorized edition of 'The Amazing Story of Henry Ford."

"When was the first time you came to Detroit to interview Mr. Ford?" asked William Henry Gallagher, chief counsel for Sapiro.

Ford Discussed Sapiro.

"Did Mr. Ford ever mention Aaron Sapiro to you?"

"Yes, he asked me if I knew Sapiro. I told him that I did not know Sapiro, but that I knew about him."

"What else did Mr. Ford say?"

"He said, 'Well, Sapiro and some other Jews are organizing the farmers and we are going to expose him; I think we can upset his apple cart'."

Upon cross examination, Miller was asked only one question by Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of Ford counsel.

"You sat up that claim (that Miller had worked a year for the Ford organization) at Washington, and lost, didn't you?"

"I lost," Miller replied in a low voice.

"That's all," said Senator Reed, and the new witness was gone after five minutes of brisk new testimony, which lifted the trial from the depths of monotony into which it had fallen.

Senator Reed's question referred to a suit Miller brought in Washington against the Dearborn Independent Co. for alleged back salary and commissions, it was understood.

Cameron Takes Responsibility.

Cameron had been dismissed from the witness stand until such time as the defense could produce the original copy of Sapiro's demand for a retraction.

Cameron admitted that receipt of the formal demand for retraction was the subject of a discussion with Ford, but that in the end it resulted only in reiteration of the Ford 'formula" for instructions to Cameron: "You're the editor."

"What did you say to Mr. Ford?" Gallagher asked.

Cameron stated that, as usual, the motor manufacturer dismissed or rather sought to dismiss the subject with a wave of his hand and application of the "formula."

Much of Cameron's final testimony was occasioned by Sapiro's counsel's questions as to possible discussions with Ford of the motor manufacturer' and the Independent's attitude toward Jews; toward the activities of Jacob Schiff, Paul M. Warburg, Otto Kahn and Lewis Marshall; toward "certain Jewish individuals" and toward an "international banking ring."

FIND NEW PLOT TO KILL SNYDER

NEW YORK, March 26. —(AP)— Two developments in the Snyder-Gray murder case Friday turned the attention of the police from the two prisoners, Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, and their alleged confessions, to a bottle of poison liquor and a story of a disconnected gas tube.

The liquor was found, the police say, in Gray's suitcase in a hotel at Syracuse and was intended to have been used to kill Albert Snyder, the art editor, if he had drunk it.

The disconnected gas tube was regarded by police as strengthening their theory that the woman and her lover had devised several methods for getting the husband "out of the way" before final recourse was had to chloroforming, strangling and clubbing last Sunday morning.

A few weeks ago, neighbors, said the middle-aged editor ran from his house in Queens Village, gasping for breath, as gas was pouring from a disconnected tube in the house.

Mrs. Snyder, at the time, it is said, told inquirers that she had probably "accidentally kicked off" the hosing.

Gray tol dthe police that the story of the poisoned whiskey in the fear, the police believe, that some one might unwittingly drink from the bottle and die.

Mrs. Snyder's 9-year-old daughter Lorraine, Friday sat in a parked automobile in Jamaica gazing wistfully at a hospital in which she believed her mother to be. She did not suspect that her parent was in the grim gray jail across the street.

SENATOR BORAH SEES NEW CHINA

Believes Real Democracy Will Arise; Opposes Interference.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A plea to let China work out her destiny unmolested by the United States was voiced Friday night by Senator Borah in an address before the National Good Housekeeping conference.

Urging that America pursue a "hands off" policy in Chinese affairs, the senator, who is chairman of the important foreign relations committee of the senate, declared that he believed that out of the chaos of the Orient, would come "a permanent and real democracy, which will take its place among the nations of the world."

"I thank God that nationalism marched into Shanghai yesterday," he said, adding that the spirit which prompted the Chinese of today, was the same that impelled the American colonists in efforts for freedom.

King Assails Ruling.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Senator William H. King, democrat of Utah, declared last night that the refusal of the state department to have the order of President Borno barring him from Haiti withdrawn was "an effort to keep alive the fiction of Haitian independence" and had only served "to focus the attention of Americans upon the domination by this government of Haitian affairs."

In an interview at the Hotel Pennsylvania, after he had disembarked from the United States transport St. Mihiel, on which he came from Santo Domingo, Senator King said that, if the state department had so desired, it could have compelled the Haitian president to withdraw his order.

Senator King exhibited copies of the order and subsequent correspondence between Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, high commissioner in Haiti, and Gen. J. S. Burrel, American army officer in charge of the Haitian gendarmes, to prove that the final decision on the order rested with the American high commissioner.

EXTEND LOW HAY AND GRAIN RATES

Nebraska railroads have extended the privileges of the reduced rates on hay and feed and seed grains to farmers in central Nebraska counties until May 15, according to word received by C. B. Steward of the Nebraska farm bureau federation.

Several months ago the railroads cut their rates in half on carload shipments of hay and feed and seed grains in order to enable the farmers in that part of the state which was hard hit by last yeaor's drouth, to obtain feed for their stock and seed for spring planting at liwer prices. Mr. Steward estimated that farmers in the counties benefitted have saved in the neighborhood of seventy-five thousand dolars so far, as a result of the cut rates.

The railroads originally planned to put these counties back on regular rate schedules on April 1, but were asked to extend the privilege. All seed grain needed has not been purchased, and farmers have not been able to lay in stores of feed grains to tide them over the early spring months because of dampness.

Extension of the cut-rate privlege will have to be eapproved by the state railway commission but that will be done immediately upon the filing of an application, it is understood.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN SEVERNS CASE

Financial Trouble Is Thought to Have Prompted Banker's Act.

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., March 26.—Donald Severns, cashier of the Surprise State bank, who was found dead in his automobile nine miles north of Utica, Thursday afternoon, took his own life, according to the verdict returned at a coroner's inquest Friday afternoon at Gresham.

The jury found that Mr. Severns shot himself with suicidal intent but made no finding as to the motive.

Mr. Severns spent Thursday in Seward attending to personal business affairs, and took his own life while returning to his home at Surprise that night, evidence taken at the inquest revealed. One witness declared that Mr. Severns attempted to borrow money while in Seward Thursday and it is thought that worry over private financial affairs may have caused him to end his life.

ARGUE LEGALITY OF BOOZE CASE

Two Fined $100.

Ira Leupold and Royal Jeter were each fined $100 and costs by Judge Chappell this afternoon. The case against Russell Matson was dismissed.

Jeter assumed full responsibility in the case, testifying that no one lived with him in the apartment and the liquor found by the officers belonged to him. Leupold also took the stand and denied ownership of the liquor.

Arguments on a motion to suppress the evidence in a liquor case against Ira Leupold, Royal Jeter, and Russell Matson, were heard in municipal court Saturday morning. The trio was arrested at an apartment near Seventeenth and apartment near Seventeenth and possession of liquor.

The defense contended that arrest of Leupold, Jeter and Matson and search of the premises were unlawful, because no search warrant had been issued.

"We might as well throw out those parts of the constitution which say that a man's home is his castle," declared Richard Stout, one of the defendants' attorneys. "I am making a plea for law enforcement—enforcement of all parts of the constitution as well as the eighteenth amendment."

In reply, Lee Basye of the attorney general's office who sat with Deputy County Attorney Farley Young as a prosecutor of the case, cited several cases to show that evidence, whether rightfully or wrongfully obtained, is admissible if material.

"What Mr. Basye has said," declared Mr. Stout, "is that all the laws of the country and this state may be ignored in order to enforce the prohibition law."

Mr. Young in his statement declared that the officer, Frank Weygint, saw a suspicious circumstance before entering the apartment. He saw Ira Leupold run with a jug and heard Royal Jeter cry "here's the law," according to Mr. Young, and this was sufficient to give him the right to enter. The defense protested that mere suspicion was not enough to justify the officers' actions, and no law violation was detected.

Judge Chappell took a few moments' recess to study several cases presented by the state and the defense.

WHEREABOUTS OF AN IOWA FRESHMAN REMAIN UNKNOWN

IOWA CITY, March 26. —(AP)— The whereabouts of Charles Barg, University of Iowa freshman athlete, remained unknown today. Barg was last seen at his rooming house here Tuesday night and his landlady, Mrs. O. H. Dunlap, said he left with a traveling bag. She thought nothing of it at first, but when she went to his room Wednesday morning to clean it, she found that Barg had not slept in the bed and it appeared that he had not returned after his departure Tuesday night.

A long distance telephone call to his father, Dr. Elias Barg of Montezuma, failed to reveal the presence of the boy there. His father could assign no reason for his disappearance.

Barg is Big Ten freshman champion in the shot put and holds the university record in that event.

His university instructors said last night that he was getting along well in his studies. He had experienced no financial troubles.

TONG CHIEFTAINS SAY TRUCE EXISTS

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Chinese tong members were told by their chieftains today there is no warfare and there must be no killings.

The order, a letter signed by the presidents of the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs, was drafted at a conference called by District Attorney Banton, who threatened wholesale deportations if the warfare, which already has taken ten lives in six cities, did not cease.

Even while the rival tong leaders were conferring with the district attorney two more Chinese were killed, one in Washington and another in Cambridge, Mass. Both shootings occurred before the "manifesto" had been sent out.

The letter declares the truce signed two years ago still in effect and urged members of both tongs to respect it. It disclaims responsibility for a letter sent out two days ago signed "Hip Sing tong" which claimed a killing in Newark, N. J., to have been a tong affair and advised all Hip Sing men to take to cover, that the tong war was on again.

The district attorney said he believed the tong leaders innocent of responsibility for the outbreak and expressed confidence killings would cease.

Police, however, in cities with large Chinese sections did not relax. Heavy patrols were maintained.

Captain Wilkins announced that the expedition will stay at Barrow at least a month before returning to Fairbanks. He plans to make the initial flight of 600 miles into the Arctic as soon as practical and then venture even farther toward the pole if the first voyage is successful.

CHICAGO, March, 26.— (By the Associated Press) —An argument that followed a drinking party led to the stabbing to death Friday of George Weber, member of an old and wealthy Rogers park family. His uncle, John Weber, is held accused of the killing, and has confessed, according to Rogers Park police.

Weber's body, with fifteen stab wounds, was found on the bed where he and John Weber slept. A butcher knife lay on the floor nearby.

BOARD MEMBERS SUED BY JUDGE

Saunders County Commissioners Defendants in Libel Suit.

WAHOO, Neb., March 26. — (By the Associated Press.) — County Judge G. N. Parmenter today filed suit for $50,000 damages against members of the Saunders county board of commissioners for an alleged libelous resolution which they adopted at a meeting here, February 11.

The defendants are: George Harmon, Ashland, chairman; Martin Swanson, Wahoo, and Frank Houfek, Prague.

The resolution was adopted by the board following charges made by Harmon that Judge Parmenter had failed to make quarterly reports of court fees as required by law and that the judge was behind in his accounts. Judge Parmenter, however, claims he made a full report and paid in all fees, on January 12.

Apprised of Judge Parmenter's filing of court fees, the board members attempted to withdraw the resolution, but were informed by County Clerk Frank Lehmkuhl that they could not withdraw it, as it was a part of court record. Consequently, the resolution remains on file.

GOFF RESIGNS AS INQUISITOR

Rumor Shortridge Will Replace Virginian on Reed Committee.

The newspaper declares that while Senator Goff is out of reach, his office at the capitol has confirmed the resignation.

Information obtained by The Post is that Senator Shortridge, republican, California, will be named to succeed the West Virginian.

Questioned on Farm Relief.

Governor McMullen was interviewed Saturday morning by Robert B. Smith, a representative of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, on views on the McNary-Haugen and possible effects of its veto by President Coolidge. The governor has expressed himself forcibly and on numerous occasions as strongly in favor of giving the McNary-Haugen plan a trial, at least.

The governor said he made no definite expressions of opinion regarding the political situation, other than that both Lowden and Dawes stand high in middlewestern favor a spossible republican presidential candidates. The big thing, he said, is to make it understood that the west demands something for agriculture.

Strong For Irrigation.

Asked as to his attitude toward the super power and irrigation bill, S. F. 270, now before the senate, the governor said that he had not studied the plan, but is in favor of some method of irrigating those middle western counties.

"The pla nwas originally to make irrigation of those lands the important thing and I am strongly in favor of that, but this bill seems to place more emphasis upon the development and distribution of electric power," he said. "Electricity can be used extensively for pump irrigation, and if the distribution of electricity to all these counties in the district will in any way reduce the cos of irrigation for the farmers, I guess it will be all right."

BAIR OUT FOR CITY COUNCIL

—Bucklin Photo.

E. M. BAIR.

Former mayor of University Place who has filed as a candidate for city commissioner of Lincoln.

Mr. Heiny declared that busses are now giving more and better service than the street cars did before they were taken off the line. Five of them are being operated via North Twenty-second and Holdrege streets to University Place and back. Two street cars have been added on the North Twenty-seventh street line, he said, which gives increased service in that part of the city also.

Claims Busses Overcrowded.

The manager was cross-examined by Mr. Williams in regard to loading more people into the busses during peak hours of travel than there are seats for. He admitted that this is done and that on some trips the vehicles are pretty well crowded.

"Do you pay any extra license tax when you fill the busses up that way?" inqired Williams.

"No, we pay $200 a year for a bus with 25 seating capacity, and that is all," Heiny answered.

Williams afterward took the stand himself and testified that he had ridden in the bus when as many as 45 passengers were crowded into it, occupying all the available space.

Mrs. Righter inquired about an accident that one of the busses had a few days ago.

"We have had no serious accidents has been less with busses to any fault of ours," replied Manager Heiny. "The number of accidents has been less with buses than when we were running street cars.

Commissioner Randall ruled that the comparative frequency of accidents had nothing to do with the matters being inquired into.

Effect on Paving Taxes.

Mrs. Righter stated that she and her husband owned 200 feet of property frontage, and that there were four owners on North Twenty-third who would be taxed a total of $5,000 "for paving for Traction Co buses to run on if it is allowed to remove its tracks."

Inquiry was made by some of the remonstrators as to why the city council sent a letter to the commission consenting to let the tracks be taken up. Commissioner Randall answered that notices had been sent to the mayor and city attorney to ascertain the attitude of the city, and the letter was in reply thereto.

"We also notified O. W. Meier of the East Lincoln league, C. L. Rein, and other citizens," he said.

"They don't represent the people living in north Lincoln," declared Williams. "They're away off in another part of town."

A petition with 245 signatures asking leave to have the car tracks kept on North Twenty-first and Twenty-third streets was in Mrs. Righter's possession.

MAY USE FUNDS TO BURY PAUPER

That county funds may lawfully be used to pay burial expenses of a non-resident dying without means is the ruling of the state legal department, in reply to an inquiry from County Attorney R. C. James of Richardson county.

Ordinarily, bodies of paupers are turned over to some medical college in accordance with a state law. When this is done the institution receiving the corpse for dissection and anatomical study pays all expenses. The Richardson county board overlooked the statute and the remains were interred there.

In another opinion given to George W. Baldwin of Crete the attorney general's office holds that the same qualifications for voting at school district elections apply to men and women. One may be a legal voter at general elections; it says, but not be eligible to vote at school elections, because of the requirement that one must either have property taxed in his own name or be the parent of a child of school age within the district.

RED FLAG FLES OVER SHANGHAI

Soviet Said To Be in Control of Chinese Labor Unions.

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The soviet flag flies over the Shanghai north station, terminus of the Shanghai-Nanking railway, just outside the international settlement.

The Chinese workers, who went on strike when the Cantonese entered Shanghai, are returning to work, but most of them are armed and they are endeavoring to run the railway with workers' committees without foreign aid.

Since the strike began none of the British officials have been allowed in the railroad station. At the railway shops all Chinese foremei were dismissed by armed committees.

Intense activity is reported among the labor unions ni the native cities joining shanghai. All these unions are said to be controlled by reds and an intensive organization campaign is proceeding, especially among the lower laboring class.

Thus far there has been no sign that Gen. Pai Tsung-Hsi, the Cantonese commander, can hope with the reds activities. He has had to recognize the general labor unions, which are described as purely communist, with a plainclothes army of 3,000 men, of whom 900 are well armed.

This army, which is reported also to have been recognized by General Pai, functions as a sort of police force. The disarming since Pai arrived in Shanghai has been chiefly of independent gunmen and not members of the plainclothes army.

MOVIE ACTOR QUESTIONED IN COAST KILLING

between the two men the crowded room was thrown into an uproar. Screaming women ran into the street and quickly fled from the scene of the struggle. When the battle ended, Diggins was lying in a pool of blood, dead, and Meehan, critically wounded, was lying by his side.

As the investigation of police developed, it was found that no weapon could be found which might have been used by Diggins in the brawl, which led officers to believe that in the general free-for-all that Meehan might have been wounded by another person.

Well Known to Police.

Meehan is well known to police here. He is allege dto have been convicted four times on charges of violating the Wright act, always, however, escaping jail sentences by paying large fines.

Lloyd Hamilton, the screen comedian, and Diggins, the dead boxer, were close friends, and were thought to have gone to the Crescent club, the scene of the murder, together. Hamilton was being questioned by police today in regard to the identity of other patrons who were in the place when the quarrel started.

John Martin, asserted proprietor of the club, has also been held for questioning.

Boxer Found Dead.

When physicians arrived at the scene of the battle, Diggins was already dead. He was stabed through he chest.

Unconscious, Meehan, his alleged assailant, was taken to a hospital. He was at first thought to be critically wounded, but it was discovered later that his wounds were superficial. Long slivers of glass were found in his clothing and he said he was cut when the boxer hurled him through a window.

The Crescent club, according to a description furnished by police, was something like an inland yacht club." It was equipped with a barroom and a "mixing room" in the rear.

Fought at Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(I. N. S.) — Eddie Diggins, well known lightweight boxer, killed today in a Hollywood duel with Charles Meehan, fought under the standard of the Olympic club of San Francisco from about 1918 to 1923, officials of the club stated.

Diggins fought many amateur boxers in the Bay region and Los Angeles, and Olympic club members thought at one time he might become world lightweight champion.

He was the son of the late Dr. E. A. Diggins of Pittsburg, Cal. He was managed by Alec Greggains, San Francisco trainer. After the world war he joined the local sports club and was a member until he went to Los Angeles.

ARGUE LEGALITY OF BOOZE CASE

Two Fined $100.

Ira Leupold and Royal Jeter were each fined $100 and costs by Judge Chappell this afternoon. The case against Russell Matson was dismissed.

Jeter assumed full responsibility in the case, testifying that no one lived with him in the apartment and the liquor found by the officers belonged to him. Leupold also took the stand and denied ownership of the liquor.

Arguments on a motion to suppress the evidence in a liquor case against Ira Leupold, Royal Jeter, and Russell Matson, were heard in municipal court Saturday morning. The trio was arrested at an apartment near Seventeenth and apartment near Seventeenth and possession of liquor.

The defense contended that arrest of Leupold, Jeter and Matson and search of the premises were unlawful, because no search warrant had been issued.

"We might as well throw out those parts of the constitution which say that a man's home is his castle," declared Richard Stout, one of the defendants' attorneys. "I am making a plea for law enforcement—enforcement of all parts of the constitution as well as the eighteenth amendment."

In reply, Lee Basye of the attorney general's office who sat with Deputy County Attorney Farley Young as a prosecutor of the case, cited several cases to show that evidence, whether rightfully or wrongfully obtained, is admissible if material.

"What Mr. Basye has said," declared Mr. Stout, "is that all the laws of the country and this state may be ignored in order to enforce the prohibition law."

Mr. Young in his statement declared that the officer, Frank Weygint, saw a suspicious circumstance before entering the apartment. He saw Ira Leupold run with a jug and heard Royal Jeter cry "here's the law," according to Mr. Young, and this was sufficient to give him the right to enter. The defense protested that mere suspicion was not enough to justify the officers' actions, and no law violation was detected.

Judge Chappell took a few moments' recess to study several cases presented by the state and the defense.

A long distance telephone call to his father, Dr. Elias Barg of Montezuma, failed to reveal the presence of the boy there. His father could assign no reason for his disappearance.

Barg is Big Ten freshman champion in the shot put and holds the university record in that event.

His university instructors said last night that he was getting along well in his studies. He had experienced no financial troubles.

BOTH DOANE TEAMS IN FINAL DEBATES

Cotner Also Stays Until End in Contests at Hastings Tourney.

HASTINGS, Neb., March 26.—(A. P.)—With the men's teams from Cotner college and Doane college facing each other and women debaters from Western State college of Gunnison, Col., and Doane college competing, finals in the Pi Kappa Delta forensic tournament will be held here today. Saturday's program will also include extemporaneous speaking and oratorical contests.

Nebraska Wesleyan debaters were eliminated in the semi-final round of the province of the Platte debate tournament Friday afternoon. The Wesleyan negative team, composed of Paul Copeland and Howard Hamilton, lost a split decision to the Hastings college trio. Wesleyan won its way into the semi-finals by defeating Doane and Grand Island. The affirmative team, John Casteel and Aubrey Carrelll won from Grand Island.

TONG CHIEFTAINS SAY TRUCE EXISTS

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Chinese tong members were told by their chieftains today there is no warfare and there must be no killings.

The order, a letter signed by the presidents of the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs, was drafted at a conference called by District Attorney Banton, who threatened wholesale deportations if the warfare, which already has taken ten lives in six cities, did not cease.

Even while the rival tong leaders were conferring with the district attorney two more Chinese were killed, one in Washington and another in Cambridge, Mass. Both shootings occurred before the "manifesto" had been sent out.

The letter declares the truce signed two years ago still in effect and urged members of both tongs to respect it. It disclaims responsibility for a letter sent out two days ago signed "Hip Sing tong" which claimed a killing in Newark, N. J., to have been a tong affair and advised all Hip Sing men to take to cover, that the tong war was on again.

The district attorney said he believed the tong leaders innocent of responsibility for the outbreak and expressed confidence killings would cease.

MARINES MAY BE TRANSPORTED BY CHATEAU THIERRY

WASHINGTON, March 26. —(AP)—The army transport Chateau Thierry which recently completed a record run from New York to San Francisco carrying passengers ill from influenza, may be called upon to make a fast passage across the Pacific to land the new contingent of 1,500 marines in China.

After the transport Henderson had been ordered north from Central America today for that purpose, the navy began negotiations with the war department for use of the Chateau Thierry instead. She still is at San Francisco.

WILKINS PARTY QUITS FAIRBANKS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 26. —(AP)—In three airplaines, the Detroit News-Wilkins Arctic expedition Friday hopped off for Point Barrow to begin its attempts to find land in the unexplored area north of Alaska.

The voyage to Point Barrow was expected to take about seven hours. After leaving Wiseman, the three planes will cross the Brooks range of mountains at an altitude of 8,000 to 10,000 feet and then head across the trackless tundra which slopes toward the Arctic.

Captain Wilkins announced that the expedition will stay at Barrow at least a month before returning to Fairbanks. He plans to make the initial flight of 600 miles into the Arctic as soon as practical and then venture even farther toward the pole if the first voyage is successful.

"PEACHES" SIGNS A FAT CONTRACT IN VAUDEVILLE

NEW YORK, March 26.—(I. N. S.)—"Peaches" Heenan Browning, whose wealthy middle aged husband, Edward W. Browning, recently obtained a separation, has become a vaudeville headliner, having signed a contract for $100,000.

She signed up with Arnold Stoltz, producer, to appear in vaudeville and picture theaters. Her first public appearance—outside of a courtroom—will take place April 18 in a little town in her native Ohio.

And she's going to do a song and dance.

Her tour will take her as far west as Chicago and in each theater she will be on the stage twenty minutes.

"Ma" Heenan will be with her. And she's going to walk out right out on the stage with her daughter, and prove to people that even though Peaches may be "on the stage," she is quite properly chaperoned.

Special scenery is being made for "Peaches'" act.

A dancing team will perform and there will be two pianists.

UNCLE HELD FOR SLAYING

Say Wealthy Chicago Man Confesses to Stabbing George Weber.

CHICAGO, March, 26.— (By the Associated Press) —An argument that followed a drinking party led to the stabbing to death Friday of George Weber, member of an old and wealthy Rogers park family. His uncle, John Weber, is held accused of the killing, and has confessed, according to Rogers Park police.

Weber's body, with fifteen stab wounds, was found on the bed where he and John Weber slept. A butcher knife lay on the floor nearby.

Saunders County Commissioners Defendants in Libel Suit.

WAHOO, Neb., March 26. — (By the Associated Press.) — County Judge G. N. Parmenter today filed suit for $50,000 damages against members of the Saunders county board of commissioners for an alleged libelous resolution which they adopted at a meeting here, February 11.

The defendants are: George Harmon, Ashland, chairman; Martin Swanson, Wahoo, and Frank Houfek, Prague.

The resolution was adopted by the board following charges made by Harmon that Judge Parmenter had failed to make quarterly reports of court fees as required by law and that the judge was behind in his accounts. Judge Parmenter, however, claims he made a full report and paid in all fees, on January 12.

Apprised of Judge Parmenter's filing of court fees, the board members attempted to withdraw the resolution, but were informed by County Clerk Frank Lehmkuhl that they could not withdraw it, as it was a part of court record. Consequently, the resolution remans on file.

Rumor Shortridge Will Replace Virginian on Reed Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Washington Post has learned that Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, has submitted his resignation as a member of the Reed "slush fund" campaign committee to Vice President Dawes.

The West Virginia senator, The Post Says, has left Washington for New York, preparatory to sailing for Europe, and wrote Mr. Dawes that due to his absence from the country he would find it impossible to act as a member of the committee.

The newspaper declares that while Senator Goff is out of reach, his office at the capitol has confirmed the resignation.

Information obtained by The Post is that Senator Shortridge, republican, California, will be named to succeed the West Virginian.

bers of the house are believed to favor repeal if the senate might swing over enough house members to put the bill through that body.

Questioned on Farm Relief.

Governor McMullen was interviewed Saturday morning by Robert B. Smith, a representative of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, on views on the McNary-Haugen and possible effects of its veto by President Coolidge. The governor has expressed himself forcibly and on numerous occasions as strongly in favor of giving the McNary-Haugen plan a trial, at least.

The governor said he made no definite expressions of opinion regarding the political situation, other than that both Lowden and Dawes stand high in middlewestern favor a spossible republican presidential candidates. The big thing, he said, is to make it understood that the west demands something for agriculture.

Strong For Irrigation.

Asked as to his attitude toward the super power and irrigation bill, S. F. 270, now before the senate, the governor said that he had not studied the plan, but is in favor of some method of irrigating those middle western counties.

"The plan was originally to make irrigation of those lands the important thing and I am strongly in favor of that, but this bill seems to place more emphasis upon the development and distribution of electric power," he said. "Electricity can be used extensively for pump irrigation, and if the distribution of electricity to all these counties in the district will in any way reduce the cost of irrigation for the farmers, I guess it will be all right."

Mr. Heiny declared that busses are now giving more and better service than the street cars did before they were taken off the line. Five of them are being operated via North Twenty-second and Holdrege streets to University Place and back. Two street cars have been added on the North Twenty-seventh street line, he said, which gives increased service in that part of the city also.

Claims Busses Overcrowded.

The manager was cross-examined by Mr. Williams in regard to loading more people into the busses during peak hours of travel than there are seats for. He admitted that this is done and that on some trips the vehicles are pretty well crowded.

"Do you pay any extra license tax when you fill the busses up that way?" inqired Williams.

"No, we pay $200 a year for a bus with 25 seating capacity, and that is all," Heiny answered.

Williams afterward took the stand himself and testified that he had ridden in the bus when as many as 45 passengers were crowded into it, occupying all the available space.

Mrs. Righter inquired about an accident that one of the busses had a few days ago.

"We have had no serious accidents has been less with busses to any fault of ours," replied Manager Heiny. "The number of accidents has been less with buses than when we were running street cars.

Effect on Paving Taxes.

Mrs. Righter stated that she and her husband owned 200 feet of property frontage, and that there were four owners on North Twenty-third who would be taxed a total of $5,000 "for paving for Traction Co buses to run on if it is allowed to remove its tracks."

Inquiry was made by some of the remonstrators as to why the city council sent a letter to the commission consenting to let the tracks be taken up. Commissioner Randall answered that notices had been sent to the mayor and city attorney to ascertain the attitude of the city, and the letter was in reply thereto.

"We also notified O. W. Meier of the East Lincoln league, C. L. Rein, and other citizens," he said.

"They don't represent the people living in north Lincoln," declared Williams. "They're away off in another part of town."

A petition with 245 signatures asking leave to have the car tracks kept on North Twenty-first and Twenty-third streets was in Mrs. Righter's possession.

MAY USE FUNDS TO BURY PAUPER

That county funds may lawfully be used to pay burial expenses of a non-resident dying without means is the ruling of the state legal department, in reply to an inquiry from County Attorney R. C. James of Richardson county.

Ordinarily, bodies of paupers are turned over to some medical college in accordance with a state law. When this is done the institution receiving the corpse for dissection and anatomical study pays all expenses. The Richardson county board overlooked the statute and the remains were interred there.

In another opinion given to George W. Baldwin of Crete the attorney general's office holds that the same qualifications for voting at school district elections apply to men and women. One may be a legal voter at general elections, it says, but not be eligible to vote at school elections, because of the requirement that one must either have property taxed in his own name or be the parent of a child of school age within the district.

RED FLAG FLES OVER SHANGHAI

Soviet Said To Be in Control of Chinese Labor Unions.

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The soviet flag flies over the Shanghai north station, terminus of the Shanghai-Nanking railway, just outside the international settlement.

The Chinese workers, who went on strike when the Cantonese entered Shanghai, are returning to work, but most of them are armed and they are endeavoring to run the railway with workers' committees without foreign aid.

Since the strike began none of the British officials have been allowed in the railroad station. At the railway shops all Chinese foremei were dismissed by armed committees.

Intense activity is reported among the labor unions ni the native cities joining shanghai. All these unions are said to be controlled by reds and an intensive organization campaign is proceeding, especially among the lower laboring class.

Thus far there has been no sign that Gen. Pai Tsung-Hsi, the Cantonese commander, can hope with the reds activities. He has had to recognize the general labor unions, which are described as purely communist, with a plainclothes army of 3,000 men, of whom 900 are well armed.

This army, which is reported also to have been recognized by General Pai, functions as a sort of police force. The disarming since Pai arrived in Shanghai has been chiefly of independent gunmen and not members of the plainclothes army.

between the two men the crowded room was thrown into an uproar. Screaming women ran into the street and quickly fled from the scene of the struggle. When the battle ended, Diggins was lying in a pool of blood, dead, and Meehan, critically wounded, was lying by his side.

As the investigation of police developed, it was found that no weapon could be found which might have been used by Diggins in the brawl, which led officers to believe that in the general free-for-all that Meehan might have been wounded by another person.

Well Known to Police.

Meehan is well known to police here. He is allege dto have been convicted four times on charges of violating the Wright act, always, however, escaping jail sentences by paying large fines.

Lloyd Hamilton, the screen comedian, and Diggins, the dead boxer, were close friends, and were thought to have gone to the Crescent club, the scene of the murder, together. Hamilton was being questioned by police today in regard to the identity of other patrons who were in the place when the quarrel started.

John Martin, asserted proprietor of the club, has also been held for questioning.

Boxer Found Dead.

When physicians arrived at the scene of the battle, Diggins was already dead. He was stabed through he chest.

Unconscious, Meehan, his alleged assailant, was taken to a hospital. He was at first thought to be critically wounded, but it was discovered later that his wounds were superficial. Long slivers of glass were found in his clothing and he said he was cut when the boxer hurled him through a window.

The Crescent club, according to a description furnished by police, was something like an inland yacht club." It was equipped with a barroom and a "mixing room" in the rear.

Fought at Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—(I. N. S.) — Eddie Diggins, well known lightweight boxer, killed today in a Hollywood duel with Charles Meehan, fought under the standard of the Olympic club of San Francisco from about 1918 to 1923, officials of the club stated.

Diggins fought many amateur boxers in the Bay region and Los Angeles, and Olympic club members thought at one time he might become world lightweight champion.

He was the son of the late Dr. E. A. Diggins of Pittsburg, Cal. He was managed by Alec Greggains, San Francisco trainer. After the world war he joined the local sports club and was a member until he went to Los Angeles.

COUNTRY AND CITY.

Brushing aside all pretenses, the failure of the Nebraska legislature to agree upon the highway program for the next biennium may be attributed to the conflicting claims of country and city.

So far highway development has been largely confined to the cities and the larger towns of the state. The state and federal system connects these larger communities in an unbroken chain of permanent dirt and graveled highway. To lift Nebraska out of the mud on the main arteries of travel we have spent $27,000,000 and the work is far from complete. It will require at least five years before all of the mileage embraced in the state and federal system has been graveled and put into condition for travel in any kind of weather.

But now we propose to develop a county highway system.

To provide a fund for that purpose, an additional 1-cent gasoline tax is proposed, the receipts to go to the counties for the building of county roads. In the nature of things the cities will pay by far the much larger proportion of this cost. More people live in the cities and towns of Nebraska now, than now reside on the farm. More automobiles are to be found in the cities. And so here and there a legislator, representing a strictly urban community, has entered a protest against the 1-cent gasoline tax on the ground his constituency should not be taxed to build roads for the farmer.

Such an attitude reveals an amazing spirit of selfishness on the part of the urban communities. For a good many years the farmer has been contributing his portion, and a very liberal one at that, for the purpose of developing the state and federal highway system. Without these connecting roads embraced in the county highway systems, the program has been of little economic value to him. It does not help him any in the rainy seasons if he is five, ten or fifteen miles off the gravel highway. He must still plough his way through the mud, in many cases for impossible distances, before he can reach the all-weather road which he helped to build. Under climatic conditions which prevailed for a large portion of the winter just ended, when an abundance of moisture, intermixed with thaws and freezes, made the mud roads impassable, he is as completely isolated as he he was before he helped raise $27,000,000 to improve the main-traveled roads.

If the farmer uncomplainingly and gladly paid his share of the expense in the building of the state highway system since 1917, what possible justification has the city dweller for refusing to contribute to the fund for the construction of good roads, connecting the farms and the villages and smaller towns with the main highways?

This was the sentiment expressed by more than a hundred Lancaster county farmers meeting at the Chamber of Commerce in Lincoln Friday.

The farmer helped to build the state system. He is asking nothing unreasonable when he proposes an additional 1-cent gasoline tax for county roads. If he fails to get it, the economic benefits of a vast expenditure of $27,000,000 for highways are nullified so far as the great majority of farmers are concerned. He is still stuck fast in the mud. He is still denied free and easy means of transportation to his market. He is still forced to shoulder the heavy handicap of bringing his grain and his livestock to market when the weather permits him, regardless of prices. There are times when he would like to sell when he cannot because he finds it impossible to get over the roads. Frequently he is compelled to spend an entire day in completing a task which should take but a few hours at the most.

We believe the vast majority of people who live in the cities are more fair-minded and generous than is reflected in this selfish spirit which has crept out during consideration of the highway program.

No state can get ahead when one class of its citizenship attempts to profit at the expense of another. The highway program is distinctly a state matter. It affects the welfare of every citizen. It should be free from local selfish influences, such as cropped out in the attempt of Omaha to grab a portion of the tax fund for paving and maintaining its streets, alleys, and boulevards, and as was voiced by two Lincoln representatives, who insisted their constituency, living in the cities, were opposed to building country roads.

Nebraska can make no better investment than is proposed in this additional 1-cent gasoline tax for county highways. The average city dweller will not use 1,000 gallons of gasoline in a year. That would allow him over 19 gallons of gasoline a week and permit him to drive 10,000 miles in twelve months. If he used the 1,000 gallons, he would pay $10 to complete Nebraska's road system.

Where is there an opportunity to invest $10 more advantageously?

STANDING UP FOR THE WEST.

Two Nebraska congressmen—one a republican, the other a democrat—who recently addressed the lower house of the legislature agreed in saying that the only way to force adequate recognition of western interests from the national government is for men of all parties in this section to join hands and stand together. Without a concerted program and unity of action, they declared, the central west will be able to get nowhere in its demand for equality of treatment with the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

This is good advice, and it is to be hoped that it will be followed by the men we have sent to Washington to represent us in both branches of congress. Partisan lines should be totally disregarded and the welfare of the great Mississippi and Missouri valley regions should be paramount in everything.

A good place to start would be in the election of a speaker and other officers for the next house of representatives. There are enough republican members from Nebraska and neighboring states to block the re-election of Speaker Longworth and his eastern associates who now control the machinery of the chamber, until they agree to give this part of the country a reasonable share of the benefits of legislation. The western g. o. p. members can do this by merely refusing to vote. They need not support a democratic candidate for speaker or any other office. Let them simply show their independence by giving notice that they will not support the party caucus selections—which, by the way, have already been made—until definite assurances are given that the voice of the great west shall not be ignored in vital matters to come before congress.

If they have enough stamina to do this, they will be able to break up once for all the vicious control of an eastern group on national legislation. They can force the speedy completion of the Missouri river channel for navigation, and also hasten the development of the St. Lawrence waterway to make possible the passage of ocean vessels into and out of the great lakes.

These two projects alone, by cheapening transportation costs, would increase the income of western farmers by hundreds of millions of dollars each year, and at the same time lower the cost of manufactured goods and many kinds of the other merchandise to consumers west of the Alleghenies. All of the people inhabiting this mid-continental area suffer from discriminatory rates charged by railroads owned in New York, New Jersey, and New England, which favor the coast regions as against the interior.

If the western congressmen, republicans as well as democrats, wish to render a further effective service to their constituents, they will give their active support to a reduction of tariff duties which make it possible for eastern manufacturers to collect heavy tribute from the rest of the country. Too much toady ing to the Atlantic coast has been done heretofore by members from Nebraska and the other western states. It is time they were serving notice on Washington that they are not going to be led around by the nose in future.

The motto of every man in congress from the middle west should be: "Give us what we are entitled to, or we will see that you get nothing yourselves." An ultimatum like that would make a profound impression on the overlords of congress who have been accustomed to regard the west as "unorganized territory" and allowed it to have nothing but crumbs that fell from the table. Those fellows need to be taught a wholesome lesson, and it is up to our congressmen and senators to do it.

A dog licks the hand that smites it, but that is not the spirit in which freeborn Americans act.

A PUBLICITY BUREAU.

What ever opposition develops to the proposal to create a state publicity bureau may be credited to the belief that such an agency would be largely political. It has been impossible to separate the activities of the bureau from the political aims of whatever state administration happens to be in power. Of course such a situation is destructive of the purposes of the bureau and makes such an agency highly undesirable.

H. R. 369, creating a publicity bureau in Nebraska, has that weakness although its author has made a manifest effort to get away from the political atmosphere which has nullified attempts to establish such an agency. The bill provides a $20,000 appropriation for the work, and stipulates appointment of the publicity director shall be made by the governor, acting upon the advice of officers of the State Press association, the director of the Bureau of Soil Conservation, and the secretary of agriculture.

So long as the director remains subservient to the governor, and works under his direction, it is to be presumed part of the efforts will be devoted to mending political fences. We have enough of this now, without adding to it. In the last campaign, for example, it would have fallen to the lot of publicity director to have joined in the deception which was put over on the voters with reference to the state deficit.

There is a real and a pressing need to tell Nebraska's story to the people of this and other states. Too many people are being lured away for Nebraska's economic welfare. Not enough people are being brought in. But to escape the political features, it would be far better to place the publicity bureau under the direction of a non-partisan, unpaid board, similar to the one which governs the university or the normal schools. There are public-spirited men in Nebraska who would be glad to serve in this capacity without a cent of expense to the state.

With the work of the publicity bureau liberated from political influences, an energetic, competent man could perform a signal service. He could do much to bring the advantages of Nebraska to the attention of her own citizens, and to the people of the other states.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Care for Children"

FREAK REDUCING DIETS.

Have you heard about the Mayo reducing diet which consists of a cup of clear coffee for breakfast, two raw tomatoes, two hard boiled eggs and two glasses of skim milk for lunch and the same for dinner? I don't know where it originated but it was NOT at the famous Mayo clinic. I'll tell you that right away.

I heard about this diet one summer when I was in California. I doubted very much that any freak diet would be used and advocated by scientific physicians, and I decided to write the Mayo clinic but I did something better.

Naturally I have to keep very much up on all methods of reducing so I decided that on my way back to New York I would visit the Mayo clinic. I found, just as I had suspected, that the system of reducing used there is the same little "ole" system that we are talking about all the time in the column—a varied diet consisting of all the elements needed by the system, except for part of its energy needs, and a careful counting of calories.

When I told the doctors what had brought me there they laughed and said that recently they had had many inquiries through the mails about his diet. They did not know where it originated either, but it certainly didn't originate there. They have a diet kitchen for the patients who are able to be up and around who come there for various disorders for whom a careful regulation of diet is necessary. Those who are overweight are put on a reduction diet but they make no specialty of reducing.

If you want to go on this so-called Mayo diet you have my blessing. It averages but 700 to 800 calories so it is too low in calories to furnish sufficient of the needed elements for any length of time. It is fairly high in mineral elements, vitamins and proteins, but it is too low in carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and contrary to popular opinions, it is absolutely necessary to have some carbohydrates in the reducing diet. Otherwise a state of acidosis which is worse than the original condition may be brought on. You notice in the diets I advise that I allow you two slices of bread or two ordinary sized potatoes or some similar food daily.

There are other freak diets that you hear of that are supposed to give wonderful reducing results—the lamb chop and pineapple, and the skim milk and baked potato are the best known of them.

Now these freak diets will reduce and they will reduce rapidly, for one reason only—they furnish an insufficient number of calories for the needs. Count the calories in them, and you will see. A glass of skim milk is 80 calories and the average sized potato is 100 calories. One hundred and eighty calories three times a day is but 540 calories. A slice of pineapple is about 50 calories and an ordinary sized lamb chop without any of the fat would be from 100 to 150 calories, so this diet would average from 600 to 700 calories.

The average adult needs from 1,800 to 2,500 calories per day depending upon the frame and activities. You can see from this that on these diets, from 1200 to 1800 calories per day are going to be supplied by the stored fat. As one-quarter of a pound of fat, human or otherwise, is approximately 1000 calories, over a quarter of a pound a day will be lost.

But, let me repeat, 600 to 700 calories of food will not contain sufficient of the elements to maintain health. So low an intake as that would be all right for a week or so only.

But why go on a freak diet? Aside from the monotony, such diets make you conspicuous if you dine out and you put your hostess to inconvenience if you dine with friends.

CHAPTER XXXII.
Behind The Oak Doors.

With no definite thought at first, other than to put as great a distance as possible between herself and the apartment house from which she had escaped, Janet walked on quickly without a backward glance. Had she looked over her shoulder she would have seen another taxi with the same golden-haired woman inside who had followed from the yacht club, but it would have suggested nothing to her.

She had decided to ride on some street car or bus as far as it would take her, and then another and another till she came to a locality where she could get a modest room and lose herself in obscurity after sending out a wireless call for her father, but for all this she would require money. Before leaving the house she had taken the string of pearls with its pendant watch from her neck and dropped them into her pocket and on reaching the avenue with the elevated road and seeing it lined with small shops of evidently humble patronage she turned into the first next the corner.

It was a miniature drygoods store, and the woman behind the counter proved both sympathetic and helpful. Yes, there were places where people could borrow money on a bit of jewelry if it was real: pawn shops they were called, and there were plenty around there, one every few blocks. Look for three gilded balls hanging over the door.

Janet thanked her and went in search of such an establishment, finding one with little difficulty. The pawnbroker, a grizzled little man, eyed her with a suspicion that made her quail when she laid the pearls before him, but long experience had made him a keen judge of human nature and her gentle speech as well as her air of unmistakable breeding assured him that he was dealing with no crook.

"I would like to know how much money you will allow me to borrow from you, leaving these as security." The unusual phraseology for a transaction in his sordid shop brought a faint smile to his thin lips and he picked up the string, examining the pearls more for effect than anything else, for a glance had shown him that they were worth several thousand, at least.

"Well, they ain't such a good grade, and pearls ain't in demand now, either," he temporized. "I guess maybe I could let you have five hundred on 'em, but not a cent more."

Five hundred! Surely that was much more than she would require! To his surprise Janet beamed upon him.

"Oh, that's awfully kind of you! You see I only want it for a day or two, just till my—my brother gets here. Thank you ever so much!"

"What name?"

This was a contingency she had not anticipated, but a convent friend from England leaped to her mind and she replied without hesitation:

"Sibyl Crabtree."

With the ticket and roll of bills which he handed her she hurried from the shop and within an hour had metamorphosed her appearance. In a soft, gray cape and ribbontrimmed hat with a veil, gloves and handbag of the same neutral color and a simple silk gown beneath, she rode for hours about the city, changing from one public conveyance to another until, almost dazed, she was sure she had left the vicinity of Park Avenue miles behind.

Alighting at last in an old-fashioned quarter, evidently fast falling into decay, Janet saw that almost every house bore placecards in the windows announcing rooms for rent. She entered the first of these and negotiated with the sour-faced landlady for the third floor hall-room for a week.

The woman accepted ten dollars and then sniffed suspiciously. "Where's your baggage?"

"I've just a bag," Janet smiled upon her. "You see, I only came from the country for a few days and I left it at the station. I'll bring it when I come back."

The room was shabby and none too clean and Janet shuddered as she left the house to seek an office from whence she might send her wireless call. She passed a taxi standing just a few doors below, a taxi that with untiring patience had followed her every move, but she did not glance at the woman inside, nor know that it had turned again to trail in her wake.

The message sent, Janet's spirits rose and she entered a modest restaurant for a belated and hearty lunch, procuring some fruit and sandwiches so that she would not have to go out again at nightfall, and with a stack of newspapers returned to her uninviting room to while away the time as best she could.

Could all the existing events of the past week have gone unnoticed by the press? Janet opened the newspapers, eagerly scanning them one by one, but it seemed that although trival local accidents were reviewed with the most minute detail, the sensational happenings which had accompanied her flight from Daneholm and the subsequent chase had utterly failed to attention.

At length she came upon a brief paragraph stating that one Sidney Forrester, whose plane in making a landing during the recent flight of the Metropolitan Aircraft Club had dashed into a stone wall, had died of his injuries. Janet read it carefully, shuddering the while, but no mention was made of the lone motorcyclist who had faced the ring of descending planes. In another paper was a somewhat longer description of the search for the practical jokers who had set off fireworks from Skullcap Mountain in the Adirondacks late on Sunday evening, to the surprise and terror of many natives and campers in the district. The use of the word "jokers" was significant in its inadvertence and Janet propped the papers with a sigh. If she could only know what those three green rockets and then the burst of purple stars denoted! If only she might have gained a clue!

Then her thoughts went back to the apartment from which she had fled that morning, and she pictured the scene that must have taken place when Mrs. Kerr learned that her victim had escaped her! She must have communicated long since with both factions and started a city-wide search, but in her security the girl laughed to herself. To-morrow or at latest the next day Daddy would come here to this very house for her and she would tell him everything: the wheels would be set in motion to punish the women who had betrayed the friends of the Black Joker....

A low but staccato knock at the door interrupted her meditations and she glanced toward it in sudden alarm. Who could be seeking her out here? Could it be that already the agents of Mrs. Kerr had tracked her down?

Cowering in her chair, Janet held her breath, praying that the intruder would go away, but the knocking continued and realizing the futility of putting off the evil moment, since there was no means of escape from the little room, she took the revolver from her belt and advanced to the door.

"Who is it?" she asked in a low, tense tone.

"A message, Miss," an aged, quavering feminine voice replied. "Please open the door, Miss, I've got to speak to you."

"You have made a mistake in the room, perhaps," Janet suggested evenly.

"No, I haven't! If you'll just open the door, Miss, and talk to me! Maybe you'll remember me, too, though I doubt it; you was that young when they sent you away! It's Letitia Evans."

The name seemed to touch some faint chord in Janet's memory, but it was too vague to be grasped. She had been young when she was sent away....Letitia....Yes, there was something....

"Please open the door, Miss," the old voice implored again. "I came all alone, and—I've got to see you! Please, Miss Janie!"

Janie! Only one of the servants of long ago could know her by that name! Still, it might be a trap!

A tall, stooping old woman stood there in neat black, with an astonishingly luxuriant mass of gray hair drawn tightly back from her deeply lined face. She held out trembling, black-gloved hands.

"Oh, Miss Janie, don't you remember me, dear? I was the housemaid at Daneholm for three years before your dear mother died and they sent you to foreign parts to school! I didn't hardly expect you'd know me, but there wasn't anybody else to come."

Letty, the housemaid! Janet remembered in a flash that there had been such a person, but she could call to mind no picture of her. There was something vaguely familiar about the aged face, and she drew her in.

"Sit down, do. You were at Daneholm?" she asked gently. "I recall the name, but that is all. How did you know I was here, and why have you come?"

"Well, Miss Janie," the old woman folded her hands in her lap, "it's too long a story to tell now and little I thought ever I'd lay eyes on you again, but after you'd gone I opened up a shop with a little money I'd put by and your father helped me. When I sold out and settled down I couldn't stand being idle so I got a place as housekeeper for a very fine gentleman, Mr. Wycoff, and he turned out to be a friend of your father's, so I've seen him now and again through the years. He told me about going to see you at the convent and what a fine big girl you was getting to be—that's neither here nor there. This afternoon your father turns up unexpected...."

"What!" Janet exclaimed.

"Yes, Miss, all the way from Europe. He—he seemed to be in trouble and him and Mr. Wycoff talked a long while, and then a man came to see him who said he'd got his instructions by wireless and had trailed you from some place in the mountains down to a flat on Park Avenue. He was waiting around to see would you come out and you did, but by the servants' entrance, so he'd followed you all over town in a taxicab till you came here. Your father banged the table at that and yelled, 'Letty,' and I walked right in, being as I was listening at the door anyways, and he says I must come right down here and get you, that you'd remember me and he'd trust nobody else! He says he was in great trouble and couldn't come himself but you'd understand.."

Letty paused out of breath and Janet cried:

"Oh, I do! I do!"

Turning to the wardrobe she seized her hat and cape and, picking up her gloves and bag, she fairly dragged the old woman to the door and down the stairs. She was going to Daddy! At last!

A limousine stood at the curb with a chauffeur in smart livery holding the door and Letty said:

"Back to Mr. Wycoff's, Henry, as quick as you can. This is Mr. Wycoff's own car, Miss Janie. You've heard your father speak of him? But you'd not recall, since it's five years and more since you saw him, isn't it?"

The old woman chattered on garrulously, but Janet paid little heed. Her heart was beating so with joy that it pained her and quick tears sprang to her eyes. This unexpected happiness after the long strain had been almost too much to endure and the moments of their brief journey lagged as had none during her hours of greatest suspense.

At length they pulled up before a stately, brownstone mansion of a past era and Letty opened the door herself with her key.

"He's waiting in the library for you, Miss Janie." She pushed the girl gently before her down the richly appointed hall. "There, behind them oak doors!"

Janet needed no second bidding, but flew to the great double doors and flung them wide with a little cry.

"Daddy!"

Then she recoiled with a strangled gasp. The man who rose and faced her from behind the writing table was Philip Marlott!

Ourselves and Our Children

The Dark!

"Oh, Mother dear, M-o-t-h-e-r!"

The cry of terror came from Harold who was sleeping in the little room adjacent to Mrs. Waker's bed room. Usually the three younger children slept in the big room which they called the nursery, but the day that Mrs. Waker was at the dentist's Harold had caught cold, and according to her custom in such cases, Mrs. Waker had isolated him as a precaution against his spreading the infection to the other children.

Helen Harrington Hartt.

Mrs. Walker never made any reference to the dark in talking with the children, and never mentioned any possible danger that might overtake them in the dark. Consequently, they were quite as happy in the dark as in the light.

Therefore this cry from Harold was alarming. Frequently before he had slept in the little room, and indeed, like the experience.

In a moment Mrs. Waker was at Harold's side, although she did not let him feel that she felt any alarm.

"Yes, dear, Mother is right here. Do you want something?"

"I'm afraid."

"There's nothing to be afraid of, dear."

"There it is again, Mother——Mother——Mother," cried he in excited tones.

"Yes, dear, I'm right here, and I'm not afraid. We're right here in this pretty little room. You know you love this pretty little room. Now go to sleep, and sweet dreams."

Mrs. Waker was about to leave the room very quietly when she felt Harold clutching at her skirts.

"I want to go to your room," he said. "I'm afraid in the dark: I want to be where it's light."

"What is the matter, dear. I don't understand; you know you like to sleep in this little room," said his mother with a quiet, untroubled voice.

"Yes, but I saw a big black thing. Oh— — oh, there's the big black thing again."

Mrs. Waker sat beside the frightened boy for a moment trying to discover the cause of his fear, and as the shadow of a tree outside the window advanced into the room, she felt Harold's clutch tighten on her arm.

"Mother will stay with you for a little while, and we'll have fun watching the shadows on the window pane," she said, "see how beautifully it moves when the wind stirs the tree? See, there it comes, the beautiful shadow — —now let's watch it sway backward and forward, backard and forward — — see-saw, Jackie Daw, sold his bed and lay on the straw."

With the swaying sound of his mother's voice Harold soon fell asleep, and the next night he went to sleep to the swaying of the shadows, and had no more fear of them.

It was Frankie Dormer who had told Harold that he was afraid of black things at night . . . that day Mrs. Waker was at the dentist's

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By Will Rogers

The guy and his wife with the kitchen garden are getting into action all over the country now. Sometimes I wonder how they manage it in the far South, where any time is kitchen garden time. The hostess always wants you to make a fuss about the stuff that was grown in her own garden, you know. Where everything all year round comes out of the garden, like I reckon it does in the South Sea Islands, there must be a lot of hypocrisy required of guests all the time. The strain must be awful.

I was told about a lady that had early radishes on the table for dinner. She busted right into a conversation between her husband and his friend about the best kind of bedtime stories to pick out of the jazz programs, and said, with a modest smile:

"Now you must have some of these! What do you think, our own radishes!"

"Oh yes," says the guest, kinda absent-mindedly, "this is the stuff you didn't borrow? Fine, I'll have some in a minute."

FOUR INDICTED

JOLIET, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—Four persons were indicted and the Will county sheriff and his deputies were severely criticised by the grand jury which completed its inquiry here Friday into the sensational jail break two weeks ago in which three Mexican killers escaped.

Those indicted, one man and three women, were Salvatore Rizzo, brother of one of the convicts, Atilana Elizaldo, Eloisa Avala and Juanita Gallardo.

All are Mexicans and are charged with aiding and abetting the escape by smuggling saws and guns to the convicts, each of whom was under sentence of death.

ORDER ARMOUR CO. BOOKS BE SHOWN

CHICAGO, March 26. —(AP)— Subpoenas directing the Armour Grain Co., which was held responsible for the $8,000,000 failure of the Grain Marketing corporation in 1924, to produce its 1923 elevator records for examination were ordered issued late Friday by the Illinois legislative investigatin committee, following the first day's public hearing.

This action followed testimony of Harry C. Mallory, former elevator weighman for the Armour Grain Co., He hold of alleged under cover paper transactions in grain, the raising of grades of grain, which he said profited the company several cents a bushel, the burning of records at Elevator C" at which he was employed, and of his accosung General Superintendent George Thompson with charges of "gypping the public."

DOUBLE KILLING IS INVESTIGATED

Bodies of Murdered Pair Found Behind Locked Doors at Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A house in a secluded section that for ten days held behind locked doors the mutilated bodies of Mrs. Edward Nevers, 42, and a man thought to be her husband echoed to movements of the police today.

A bloodstained hatchet and a whisky still, found in a garage from which the Nevers' expensive automobile had disappeared, only added mysterious aspects to the slayings. Police were searching for a man, known as a friend of the family, who until recently roomed in the home.

A business woman called at the house last night and, unable to get a response to repeated calls, called J. A. Keith, watchman. The man, entering with a pass key, observed bloodstains in the hallway. He summoned officers, who found the bodies in a bedroom.

Mrs. Nevers' body, the head cut and bruised, was seated upright in a chair, while that of the man, identified by acquaintances as Nevers, was stuffed in a hall closet, a rope around his neck. There were no signs of a struggle. A strong box containing jewels and deeds to property was found intact, as were several trunks.

Liquor Is Found.

A newspaper of March 15 was found in the bedroom. The dining room table had been set for breakfast, several foods untouched. In another part of the house a quantity of whisky was found, indicating to police associatio nwith the still.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevers, known as a devoted couple, came to Miami from Chicago about four years ago. Steve Jennings, a friend, told police Nevers, formerly, a dealer in phonographs, had not been in business in Miami. They are known to have had property in the city, but letters found on the man's body indicated he had been pressed for funds recently.

Nevers' will made recently in Tallahassee and bequeathing all his property to his wife, was found. Letters from relatives in the east contained nothing suggesting to police a motive.

BERG TO USE NEW ELECTION SYSTEM

City clerk Berg's new election system authorized in a bill signed by Governor McMullen Friday, will be used in the primary election April 5, Mr. Berg said Saturday.

The bill provides permanent registration. All electors registered for this election will not have to register again unless they fail to vote twice in succession or move.

Mr. Berg thinks the plan will make registration and voting much easier and end the rush to register during the last few days before an election. It also will reduce costs considerably, he said.

Because of the change of addresses effective in University lace and Bethany, June 1, it will be necessary for residents there to correct their registrations then.

The clerk's office will be open Saturday night from 7 to 9 to care for those not registered. Filings of candidates also may be made up to that hour if the candidate has a receipt showing the $10 filing fee has been paid.

COUNTRY AND CITY.

Brushing aside all pretenses, the failure of the Nebraska legislature to agree upon the highway program for the next biennium may be attributed to the conflicting claims of country and city.

So far highway development has been largely confined to the cities and the larger towns of the state. The state and federal system connects these larger communities in an unbroken chain of permanent dirt and graveled highway. To lift Nebraska out of the mud on the main arteries of travel we have spent $27,000,000 and the work is far from complete. It will require at least five years before all of the mileage embraced in the state and federal system has been graveled and put into condition for travel in any kind of weather.

But now we propose to develop a county highway system.

To provide a fund for that purpose, an additional 1-cent gasoline tax is proposed, the receipts to go to the counties for the building of county roads. In the nature of things the cities will pay by far the much larger proportion of this cost. More people live in the cities and towns of Nebraska now, than now reside on the farm. More automobiles are to be found in the cities. And so here and there a legislator, representing a strictly urban community, has entered a protest against the 1-cent gasoline tax on the ground his constituency should not be taxed to build roads for the farmer.

Such an attitude reveals an amazing spirit of selfishness on the part of the urban communities. For a good many years the farmer has been contributing his portion, and a very liberal one at that, for the purpose of developing the state and federal highway system. Without these connecting roads embraced in the county highway systems, the program has been of little economic value to him. It does not help him any in the rainy seasons if he is five, ten or fifteen miles off the gravel highway. He must still plough his way through the mud, in many cases for impossible distances, before he can reach the all-weather road which he helped to build. Under climatic conditions which prevailed for a large portion of the winter just ended, when an abundance of moisture, intermixed with thaws and freezes, made the mud roads impassable, he is as completely isolated as he he was before he helped raise $27,000,000 to improve the main-traveled roads.

If the farmer uncomplainingly and gladly paid his share of the expense in the building of the state highway system since 1917, what possible justification has the city dweller for refusing to contribute to the fund for the construction of good roads, connecting the farms and the villages and smaller towns with the main highways?

This was the sentiment expressed by more than a hundred Lancaster county farmers meeting at the Chamber of Commerce in Lincoln Friday.

The farmer helped to build the state system. He is asking nothing unreasonable when he proposes an additional 1-cent gasoline tax for county roads. If he fails to get it, the economic benefits of a vast expenditure of $27,000,000 for highways are nullified so far as the great majority of farmers are concerned. He is still stuck fast in the mud. He is still denied free and easy means of transportation to his market. He is still forced to shoulder the heavy handicap of bringing his grain and his livestock to market when the weather permits him, regardless of prices. There are times when he would like to sell when he cannot because he finds it impossible to get over the roads. Frequently he is compelled to spend an entire day in completing a task which should take but a few hours at the most.

We believe the vast majority of people who live in the cities are more fair-minded and generous than is reflected in this selfish spirit which has crept out during consideration of the highway program.

No state can get ahead when one class of its citizenship attempts to profit at the expense of another. The highway program is distinctly a state matter. It affects the welfare of every citizen. It should be free from local selfish influences, such as cropped out in the attempt of Omaha to grab a portion of the tax fund for paving and maintaining its streets, alleys, and boulevards, and as was voiced by two Lincoln representatives, who insisted their constituency, living in the cities, were opposed to building country roads.

Nebraska can make no better investment than is proposed in this additional 1-cent gasoline tax for county highways. The average city dweller will not use 1,000 gallons of gasoline in a year. That would allow him over 19 gallons of gasoline a week and permit him to drive 10,000 miles in twelve months. If he used the 1,000 gallons, he would pay $10 to complete Nebraska's road system.

STANDING UP FOR THE WEST.

Two Nebraska congressmen—one a republican, the other a democrat—who recently addressed the lower house of the legislature agreed in saying that the only way to force adequate recognition of western interests from the national government is for men of all parties in this section to join hands and stand together. Without a concerted program and unity of action, they declared, the central west will be able to get nowhere in its demand for equality of treatment with the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

This is good advice, and it is to be hoped that it will be followed by the men we have sent to Washington to represent us in both branches of congress. Partisan lines should be totally disregarded and the welfare of the great Mississippi and Missouri valley regions should be paramount in everything.

A good place to start would be in the election of a speaker and other officers for the next house of representatives. There are enough republican members from Nebraska and neighboring states to block the re-election of Speaker Longworth and his eastern associates who now control the machinery of the chamber, until they agree to give this part of the country a reasonable share of the benefits of legislation. The western g. o. p. members can do this by merely refusing to vote. They need not support a democratic candidate for speaker or any other office. Let them simply show their independence by giving notice that they will not support the party caucus selections—which, by the way, have already been made—until definite assurances are given that the voice of the great west shall not be ignored in vital matters to come before congress.

If they have enough stamina to do this, they will be able to break up once for all the vicious control of an eastern group on national legislation. They can force the speedy completion of the Missouri river channel for navigation, and also hasten the development of the St. Lawrence waterway to make possible the passage of ocean vessels into and out of the great lakes.

These two projects alone, by cheapening transportation costs, would increase the income of western farmers by hundreds of millions of dollars each year, and at the same time lower the cost of manufactured goods and many kinds of the other merchandise to consumers west of the Alleghenies. All of the people inhabiting this mid-continental area suffer from discriminatory rates charged by railroads owned in New York, New Jersey, and New England, which favor the coast regions as against the interior.

If the western congressmen, republicans as well as democrats, wish to render a further effective service to their constituents, they will give their active support to a reduction of tariff duties which make it possible for eastern manufacturers to collect heavy tribute from the rest of the country. Too much toady ing to the Atlantic coast has been done heretofore by members from Nebraska and the other western states. It is time they were serving notice on Washington that they are not going to be led around by the nose in future.

The motto of every man in congress from the middle west should be: "Give us what we are entitled to, or we will see that you get nothing yourselves." An ultimatum like that would make a profound impression on the overlords of congress who have been accustomed to regard the west as "unorganized territory" and allowed it to have nothing but crumbs that fell from the table. Those fellows need to be taught a wholesome lesson, and it is up to our congressmen and senators to do it.

A dog licks the hand that smites it, but that is not the spirit in which freeborn Americans act.

A PUBLICITY BUREAU.

What ever opposition develops to the proposal to create a state publicity bureau may be credited to the belief that such an agency would be largely political. It has been impossible to separate the activities of the bureau from the political aims of whatever state administration happens to be in power. Of course such a situation is destructive of the purposes of the bureau and makes such an agency highly undesirable.

H. R. 369, creating a publicity bureau in Nebraska, has that weakness although its author has made a manifest effort to get away from the political atmosphere which has nullified attempts to establish such an agency. The bill provides a $20,000 appropriation for the work, and stipulates appointment of the publicity director shall be made by the governor, acting upon the advice of officers of the State Press association, the director of the Bureau of Soil Conservation, and the secretary of agriculture.

So long as the director remains subservient to the governor, and works under his direction, it is to be presumed part of the efforts will be devoted to mending political fences. We have enough of this now, without adding to it. In the last campaign, for example, it would have fallen to the lot of publicity director to have joined in the deception which was put over on the voters with reference to the state deficit.

There is a real and a pressing need to tell Nebraska's story to the people of this and other states. Too many people are being lured away for Nebraska's economic welfare. Not enough people are being brought in. But to escape the political features, it would be far better to place the publicity bureau under the direction of a non-partisan, unpaid board, similar to the one which governs the university or the normal schools. There are public-spirited men in Nebraska who would be glad to serve in this capacity without a cent of expense to the state.

With the work of the publicity bureau liberated from political influences, an energetic, competent man could perform a signal service. He could do much to bring the advantages of Nebraska to the attention of her own citizens, and to the people of the other states.

FREAK REDUCING DIETS.

Have you heard about the Mayo reducing diet which consists of a cup of clear coffee for breakfast, two raw tomatoes, two hard boiled eggs and two glasses of skim milk for lunch and the same for dinner? I don't know where it originated but it was NOT at the famous Mayo clinic. I'll tell you that right away.

I heard about this diet one summer when I was in California. I doubted very much that any freak diet would be used and advocated by scientific physicians, and I decided to write the Mayo clinic but I did something better.

Naturally I have to keep very much up on all methods of reducing so I decided that on my way back to New York I would visit the Mayo clinic. I found, just as I had suspected, that the system of reducing used there is the same little "ole" system that we are talking about all the time in the column—a varied diet consisting of all the elements needed by the system, except for part of its energy needs, and a careful counting of calories.

When I told the doctors what had brought me there they laughed and said that recently they had had many inquiries through the mails about his diet. They did not know where it originated either, but it certainly didn't originate there. They have a diet kitchen for the patients who are able to be up and around who come there for various disorders for whom a careful regulation of diet is necessary. Those who are overweight are put on a reduction diet but they make no specialty of reducing.

If you want to go on this so-called Mayo diet you have my blessing. It averages but 700 to 800 calories so it is too low in calories to furnish sufficient of the needed elements for any length of time. It is fairly high in mineral elements, vitamins and proteins, but it is too low in carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and contrary to popular opinions, it is absolutely necessary to have some carbohydrates in the reducing diet. Otherwise a state of acidosis which is worse than the original condition may be brought on. You notice in the diets I advise that I allow you two slices of bread or two ordinary sized potatoes or some similar food daily.

There are other freak diets that you hear of that are supposed to give wonderful reducing results—the lamb chop and pineapple, and the skim milk and baked potato are the best known of them.

Now these freak diets will reduce and they will reduce rapidly, for one reason only—they furnish an insufficient number of calories for the needs. Count the calories in them, and you will see. A glass of skim milk is 80 calories and the average sized potato is 100 calories. One hundred and eighty calories three times a day is but 540 calories. A slice of pineapple is about 50 calories and an ordinary sized lamb chop without any of the fat would be from 100 to 150 calories, so this diet would average from 600 to 700 calories.

The average adult needs from 1,800 to 2,500 calories per day depending upon the frame and activities. You can see from this that on these diets, from 1200 to 1800 calories per day are going to be supplied by the stored fat. As one-quarter of a pound of fat, human or otherwise, is approximately 1000 calories, over a quarter of a pound a day will be lost.

But, let me repeat, 600 to 700 calories of food will not contain sufficient of the elements to maintain health. So low an intake as that would be all right for a week or so only.

But why go on a freak diet? Aside from the monotony, such diets make you conspicuous if you dine out and you put your hostess to inconvenience if you dine with friends.

CHAPTER XXXII.
Behind The Oak Doors.

With no definite thought at first, other than to put as great a distance as possible between herself and the apartment house from which she had escaped, Janet walked on quickly without a backward glance. Had she looked over her shoulder she would have seen another taxi with the same golden-haired woman inside who had followed from the yacht club, but it would have suggested nothing to her.

She had decided to ride on some street car or bus as far as it would take her, and then another and another till she came to a locality where she could get a modest room and lose herself in obscurity after sending out a wireless call for her father, but for all this she would require money. Before leaving the house she had taken the string of pearls with its pendant watch from her neck and dropped them into her pocket and on reaching the avenue with the elevated road and seeing it lined with small shops of evidently humble patronage she turned into the first next the corner.

It was a miniature drygoods store, and the woman behind the counter proved both sympathetic and helpful. Yes, there were places where people could borrow money on a bit of jewelry if it was real; pawn shops they were called, and there were plenty around there, one every few blocks. Look for three gilded balls hanging over the door.

Janet thanked her and went in search of such an establishment, finding one with little difficulty. The pawnbroker, a grizzled little man, eyed her with a suspicion that made her quail when she laid the pearls before him, but long experience had made him a keen judge of human nature and her gentle speech as well as her air of unmistakable breeding assured him that he was dealing with no crook.

"I would like to know how much money you will allow me to borrow from you, leaving these as security." The unusual phraseology for a transaction in his sordid shop brought a faint smile to his thin lips and he picked up the string, examining the pearls more for effect than anything else, for a glance had shown him that they were worth several thousand, at least.

"Well, they ain't such a good grade, and pearls ain't in demand now, either," he temporized. "I guess maybe I could let you have five hundred on 'em, but not a cent more."

Five hundred! Surely that was much more than she would require! To his surprise Janet beamed upon him.

"Oh, that's awfully kind of you! You see I only want it for a day or two, just till my—my brother gets here. Thank you ever so much!"

"What name?"

This was a contingency she had not anticipated, but a convent friend from England leaped to her mind and she replied without hesitation:

"Sibyl Crabtree."

With the ticket and roll of bills which he handed her she hurried from the shop and within an hour had metamorphosed her appearance. In a soft, gray cape and ribbontrimmed hat with a veil, gloves and handbag of the same neutral color and a simple silk gown beneath, she rode for hours about the city, changing from one public conveyance to another until, almost dazed, she was sure she had left the vicinity of Park Avenue miles behind.

Alighting at last in an old-fashioned quarter, evidently fast falling into decay, Janet saw that almost every house bore placecards in the windows announcing rooms for rent. She entered the first of these and negotiated with the sour-faced landlady for the third floor hall-room for a week.

The woman accepted ten dollars and then sniffed suspiciously. "Where's your baggage?"

"I've just a bag," Janet smiled upon her. "You see, I only came from the country for a few days and I left it at the station. I'll bring it when I come back."

The room was shabby and none too clean and Janet shuddered as she left the house to seek an office from whence she might send her wireless call. She passed a taxi standing just a few doors below, a taxi that with untiring patience had followed her every move, but she did not glance at the woman inside, nor know that it had turned again to trail in her wake.

The message sent, Janet's spirits rose and she entered a modest restaurant for a belated and hearty lunch, procuring some fruit and sandwiches so that she would not have to go out again at nightfall, and with a stack of newspapers returned to her uninviting room to while away the time as best she could.

Could all the existing events of the past week have gone unnoticed by the press? Janet opened the newspapers, eagerly scanning them one by one, but it seemed that although trival local accidents were reviewed with the most minute detail, the sensational happenings which had accompanied her flight from Daneholm and the subsequent chase had utterly failed to attention.

At length she came upon a brief paragraph stating that one Sidney Forrester, whose plane in making a landing during the recent flight of the Metropolitan Aircraft Club had dashed into a stone wall, had died of his injuries. Janet read it carefully, shuddering the while, but no mention was made of the lone motorcyclist who had faced the ring of descending planes. In another paper was a somewhat longer description of the search for the practical jokers who had set off fireworks from Skullcap Mountain in the Adirondacks late on Sunday evening, to the surprise and terror of many natives and campers in the district. The use of the word "jokers" was significant in its inadvertence and Janet propped the papers with a sigh. If she could only know what those three green rockets and then the burst of purple stars denoted! If only she might have gained a clue!

Then her thoughst went back to the apartment from which she had fled that morning, and she pictured the scene that must have taken place when Mrs. Kerr learned that her victim had escaped her! She must have communicated long since with both factions and started a city-wide search, but in her security the girl laughed to herself. To-morrow or at latest the next day Daddy would come here to this very house for her and she would tell him everything; the wheels would be set in motion to punish the women who had betrayed the friends of the Black Joker....

A low but staccato knock at the door interrupted her meditations and she glanced toward it in sudden alarm. Who could be seeking her out here? Could it be that already the agents of Mrs. Kerr had tracked her down?

Cowering in her chair, Janet held her breath, praying that the intruder would go away, but the knocking continued and realizing the futility of putting off the evil moment, since there was no means of escape from the little room, she took the revolver from her belt and advanced to the door.

"Who is it?" she asked in a low, tense tone.

"A message, Miss," an aged, quavering feminine voice replied. "Please open the door, Miss, I've got to speak to you."

"You have made a mistake in the room, perhaps," Janet suggested evenly.

"No, I haven't! If you'll just open the door, Miss, and talk to me! Maybe you'll remember me, too, though I doubt it; you was that young when they sent you away! It's Letitia Evans."

The name seemed to touch some faint chord in Janet's memory, but it was too vague to be grasped. She had been young when she was sent away....Letitia....Yes, there was something....

"Please open the door, Miss," the old voice implored again. "I came all alone, and—I've got to see you! Please, Miss Janie!"

Janie! Only one of the servants of long ago could know her by that name! Still, it might be a trap!

A tall, stooping old woman stood there in neat black, with an astonishingly luxuriant mass of gray hair drawn tightly back from her deeply lined face. She held out trembling, black-gloved hands.

"Oh, Miss Janie, don't you remember me, dear? I was the housemaid at Daneholm for three years before your dear mother died and they sent you to foreign parts to school! I didn't hardly expect you'd know me, but there wasn't anybody else to come."

Letty, the housemaid! Janet remembered in a flash that there had been such a person, but she could call to mind no picture of her. There was something vaguely familiar about the aged face, and she drew her in.

"Sit down, do. You were at Daneholm?" she asked gently. "I recall the name, but that is all. How did you know I was here, and why have you come?"

"Well, Miss Janie," the old woman folded her hands in her lap, "it's too long a story to tell now and little I thought ever I'd lay eyes on you again, but after you'd gone I opened up a shop with a little money I'd put by and your father helped me. When I sold out and settled down I couldn't stand being idle so I got a place as housekeeper for a very fine gentleman, Mr Aycoff, and he turned out to be a friend of your father's, so I've seen him now and again through the years. He told me about going to see you at the convent and what a fine big girl you was getting to be—that's neither here nor there. This afternoon your father turns up unexpected....."

"What!" Janet exclaimed.

"Yes, Miss, all the way from Europe. He—he seemed to be in trouble and him and Mr. Wycoff talked a long while, and then a man came to see him who said he'd got his instructions by wireless and had trailed you from some place in the mountains down to a flat on Park Avenue. He was waiting around to see would you come out and you did, but by the servants' entrance, so he'd followed you all over town in a taxicab till you came here. Your father banged the table at that and yelled, 'Letty,' and I walked right in, being as I was listening at the door anyways, and he says I must come right down here and get you, that you'd remember me and he'd trust nobody else! He says he was in great trouble and couldn't come himself but you'd understand.."

Letty paused out of breath and Janet cried:

"Oh, I do! I do!"

Turning to the wardrobe she seized her hat and cape and, picking up her gloves and bag, she fairly dragged the old woman to the door and down the stairs. She was going to Daddy! At last!

A limousine stood at the curb with a chauffeur in smart livery holding the door and Letty said:

"Back to Mr. Wycoff's, Henry, as quick as you can. This is Mr. Wycoff's own car, Miss Janie. You've heard your father speak of him? But you'd not recall, since it's five years and more since you saw him, isn't it?"

The old woman chattered on garrulously, but Janet paid little heed. Her heart was beating so with joy that it pained her and quick tears sprang to her eyes. This unexpected happiness after the long strain had been almost too much to endure and the moments of their brief journey lagged as had none during her hours of greatest suspense.

At length they pulled up before a stately, brownstone mansion of a past era and Letty opened the door herself with her key.

"He's waiting in the library for you, Miss Janie." She pushed the girl gently before her down the richly appointed hall. "There, behind them oak doors!"

Janet needed no second bidding, but flew to the great double doors and flung them wide with a little cry.

"Daddy!"

Then she recoiled with a strangled gasp. The man who rose and faced her from behind the writing table was Philip Mariott!

The Dark!

"Oh, Mother dear, M-o-t-h-e-r!"

The cry of terror came from Harold who was sleeping in the little room adjacent to Mrs. Waker's bed room. Usually the three younger children slept in the big room which they called the nursery, but the day that Mrs. Waker was at the dentist's Harold had caught cold, and according to her custom in such cases, Mrs. Waker had isolated him as a precaution against his spreading the infection to the other children.

Helen Harrington Hartt.

Mrs. Walker never made any reference to the dark in talking with the children, and never mentioned any possible danger that might overtake them in the dark. Consequently, they were quite as happy in the dark as in the light.

Therefore this cry from Harold was alarming. Frequently before he had slept in the little room, and indeed, like the experience.

In a moment Mrs. Waker was at Harold's side, although she did not let him feel that she felt any alarm.

"I'm afraid."

"There's nothing to be afraid of, dear."

"There it is again, Mother——Mother——Mother," cried he in excited tones.

"Yes, dear, I'm right here, and I'm not afraid. We're right here in this pretty little room. You know you love this pretty little room. Now go to sleep, and sweet dreams."

Mrs. Waker was about to leave the room very quietly when she felt Harold clutching at her skirts.

"I want to go to your room," he said, "I'm afraid in the dark; I want to be where it's light."

"What is the matter, dear, I don't understand; you know you like to sleep in this little room," said his mother with a quiet, untroubled voice.

"Yes, but I saw a big black thing. Oh— — oh, there's the big black thing again."

Mrs. Waker sat beside the frightened boy for a moment trying to discover the cause of his fear, and as the shadow of a tree outside the window advanced into the room, she felt Harold's clutch tighten on her arm.

"Mother will stay with you for a little while, and we'll have fun watching the shadows on the window pane," she said, "see how beautifully it moves when the wind stirs the tree? See, there it comes, the beautiful shadow — —now let's watch it sway backward and forward, backard and forward — — see-saw, Jackie Daw, sold his bed and lay on the straw."

With the swaying sound of his mother's voice Harold soon fell asleep, and the next night he went to sleep to the swaying of the shadows, and had no more fear of them.

It was Frankie Dormer who had told Harold that he was afraid of black things at night . . . that day Mrs. Waker was at the dentist's.

By Will Rogers

The guy and his wife with the kitchen garden are getting into action all over the country now. Sometimes I wonder how they manage it in the far South, where any time is kitchen garden time. The hostess always wants you to make a fuss about the stuff that was grown in her own garden, you know. Where everything all year round comes out of the garden, like I reckon it does in the oSuth Sea Islands, there must be a lot of hypocrisy required of guests all the time. The strain must be awful.

I was told about a lady that had early radishes on the table for dinner. She busted right into a conversation between her husband and his friend about the best kind of bedtime stories to pick out of the jazz programs, and said, with a modest smile:

"Now you must have some of these! What do you think, our own radishes!"

"Oh yes," says the guest, kinda absent-mindedly, "this is the stuff you didn't borrow? Fine, I'll have some in a minute."

FOUR INDICTED

JOLIET, Ill., March 26.—(AP)—Four persons were indicted and the Will county sheriff and his deputies were severely criticised by the grand jury which completed its inquiry here Friday into the sensational jail break two weeks ago in which three Mexican killers escaped.

Those indicted, one man and three women, were Salvatore Rizzo, brother of one of the convicts, Atilana Elizaldo, Eloisa Avala and Juanita Gallardo.

All are Mexicans and are charged with aiding and abetting the escape by smuggling saws and guns to the convicts, each of whom was under sentence of death.

ORDER ARMOUR CO. BOOKS BE SHOWN

CHICAGO, March 26. —(AP)—Subpoenas directing the Armour Grain Co., which was held responsible for the $3,000,000 failure of the Grain Marketing corporation in 1924, to produce its 1923 elevator records for examination were ordered issued late Friday by the Illinois legislative investigatin committee, following the first day's public hearing.

This action followed testimony of Harry C. Mallory, former elevator weighman for the Armour Grain Co., He hold of alleged under cover paper transactions in grain, the raising of grades of grain, which he said profited the company several cents a bushel, the burning of records at Elevator C" at which he was employed, and of his accosting General Superintendent George Thompson with charges of "gyping the public."

DOUBLE KILLING IS INVESTIGATED

MIAMI, Fla., March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—A house in a secluded section that for ten days held behind locked doors the mutilated bodies of Mrs. Edward Nevers, 42, and a man thought to be her husband echoed to movements of the police today.

A bloodstained hatchet and a whisky still, found in a garage from which the Nevers' expensive automobile had disappeared, only added mysterious aspects to the slayings. Police were searching for a man, known as a friend of the family, who until recently roomed in the home.

A business woman called at the house last night and, unable to get a response to repeated calls, called J. A. Keith, watchman. The man, entering with a pass key, observed bloodstains in the hallway. He summoned officers, who found the bodies in a bedroom.

Mrs. Nevers' body, the head cut and bruised, was seated upright in a chair, while that of the man, identified by acquaintances as Nevers, was stuffed in a hall closet, a rope around his neck. There were no signs of a struggle. A strong box containing jewels and deeds to property was found intact, as were several trunks.

Liquor Is Found.

A newspaper of March 15 was found in the bedroom. The dining room table had been set for breakfast, several foods untouched. In another part of the house a quantity of whisky was found, indicating to police associatio nwith the still.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevers, known as a devoted couple, came to Miami from Chicago about four years ago. Steve Jennings, a friend, told police Nevers, formerly a dealer in phonographs, had not been in business in Miami. They are known to have had property in the city, but letters found on the man's body indicated he had been pressed for funds recently.

Nevers' will made recently in Tallahassee and bequeathing all his property to his wife, was found. Letters from relatives in the east contained nothing suggesting to police a motive.

City clerk Berg's new election system authorized in a bill signed by Governor McMullen Friday, will be used in the primary election April 5, Mr. Berg said Saturday.

The bill provides permanent registration. All electors registered for this election will not have to register again unless they fail to vote twice in succession or move.

Mr. Berg thinks the plan will make registration and voting much easier and end the rush to register during the last few days before an election. It also will reduce costs considerably, he said.

Because of the change of addresses effective in University lace and Bethany, June 1, it will be necessary for residents there to correct their registrations then.

The clerk's office will be open Saturday night from 7 to 9 to care for those not registered. Filings of candidates also may be made up to that hour if the candidate has a receipt showing the $10 filing fee has been paid.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

GRAIN MARKETS.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 26.

Uncertainty regarding the Chinese situation, together with enlarged export demand for North American shipments, gave a decided upward tilt today to wheat.

Besides, Liverpool wheat quotations were much higher than due. Export sales in all positions were conservatively estimated at 750,000 bushels, but on the other hand, domestic crop reports continued favorable and the weekly weather forecast was also auspicious.

Wheat closed firm, ⅝ to 1c higher; corn, ⅛ to ⅜c down; oats at a shade to ⅛c advance, andp rovisions unchanged to 7c decline.

With wheat values here approximating the world level, traders on the buying side of the wheat market showed considerable increase in numbers at times today. Special encouragement for buyers resulted from indications for further good export business wheat and rye as well.

Domestic red winter and hard winter wheat were reported as having been taken to Europe over night. Some red wheat was said to have been sold abroad equal to 10 cents a bushel over Chicago May, f. o. b. Baltimore. More assuring advices also from Minneapolis in regard to cash demand for wheat was construed as reflecting improved inquiry for flour.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat and on short covering. Although the best prices were not maintained on corn, there was a fair class of buying in evidence. The spot corn trading basis was somewhat easier despite smallness of receipts, but eastern seeding of oats was reported as under way in southern Nebraska. The spot oats basis was firmer.

Provisions was dull and slightly easier on account of scattered selling.

Weekly Trade Review.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Dun's today said:

"On the whole recent gains in several important lines have been well sustained and in some instances extended, though commercial conditions disclosed rather sharp irregulars. Expansion in some directions contracts with continued lassitude in other quarters, while some markets are strong and others are weak. Such phases as these naturally result in conflicting reports on the general situation, but they are not surprising in view of the wide ramifications of business. So far as the principal statistics barometers are concerned, most of these point upward.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 26.

Stocks were dull and irregular in the short session of the stock market today. Profit taking in the speculative leaders was still in evidence, and short selling in the industrial and utility stocks which led Friday's closing rally. Railroad stocks were sidetracked and their place taken by a few of the mercantile and amusement stocks, with Fox Film up about 2½ points on announcement of its purchase of Roxy theatre.

The week-end business reviews emphasized the increase in car loadings and bank clearings as an evidence of business expansion. Retail trade was retarded somewhat by the colder weather prevailing in the midwest. Steel production expended, with the railroad and construction the principal buyers. Commodity prices recorded more declines than advances in a week of featureless developments in this department of business activity.

The stock market continued narrow and professional, with occasional spurts in prices of industrial and specialty stocks in which "moves" were staged earlier in the week. American Telephone & Telegraph resumed the advance which had been interrupted by official denial of any intended split-up in the stock and sold close to its record high of 168. Universal Pipe, Lago Petroleum and All America Cables, which attracted attention earlier in the week, were pushed along the tape, while market favorites like steel common and general motors retired to the background.

Most of the motor stocks declined to a lower range of prices in the second hour. Bearish traders have found the motors in less substantial position than the industrials in general, due to the persistent rumors of price cutting and possible amalgamation of a number of the well known manufacturers. Oil stocks were slightly irregular and copper stocks steady.

The week-end cotton and grain markets were inactive and quiet with narrow price changes. The same was true of the listed and unlisted rubber, sugar and textile market, which marked time in the absence of special developments.

Stocks of the motor and oil companies were the leaders in a moderate rally of prices in the final period. Lago Petroleum sold above 30 on reports of important discoveries in its South American fields, while Pan-American improved nearly 2 points.

Railroad stocks were inactive and industrial fairly steady at the opening today Atchison sold up 1⅜ at 177, while New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio were fractionally higher. United States Steel was unchanged at 164; Baldwin up ⅜ at 181; American Telephone & Telegraph up ¼ at 165⅛; General Motors down ⅜ at 176¼; General Electric down ⅞ at 84⅞.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP)—Crop reports remain distinctly favorable, said one observer, and no real cold weather was in sight, with further rains predicted for the more northern sections.

Sharp declines in wheat futures of late have put American markets in line for export business, this observer says, and there were claims of sales of both winters and springs yesterday. This includes Duluth grain, the first of the latter sold abroad in considerable time.

Late cables brought requests for offers of all grains from abroad. Seaboard had sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bushels of wheat in all positions.

COOLIDGE SEES LARGE SURPLUS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Coolidge understands the treasury surplus for this fiscal year will be considerably in excess of the $200,000,000 previously estimated.

However, the president believes that congress in its prospective tax reduction will determine the amount of surplus in sight for the coming year by business conditions next fall.

While congressional leaders of both parties have tentatively mapped out plans for abolishment of the remaining wartime nuisance taxes and reduction of the corporation levy in the next revenue bill, as yet neither Mr. Coolidge or the treasury is prepared to announce any program for tax reduction.

The nature of the business described in the articles is to buy, sell, and deal generally in electric equipment, appliances, radios and accessories. The authorized capital stock of the company is $50,000.

MORE MARINES SOON WILL BE SENT TO CHINA

ing of the American destroyers Noa and Wm. B. Preston is reported to be on the increase. Shanghai is quiet, but some officials believe here ominously so.

In this situation, Admiral Williams deemed reinforcements necessary. He has available now at Shanghai a force of about 1,500 marines, and 1,600 bluejackets available for shore work. In a great emergency he could, of course, use more bluejackets from the ships in the harbor, but to do so would interfere with ship operations

"The situation at Nanking is still serious," said Secretary of State Kellogg.

"We are prepared to do anything and everything for the protection of American lives and property in China."

Red Cross Cables Aid.

The American Red Cross today cabled $10,000 to Shanghai for relief of destitute Americans who were evacuated from Nanking. Consul General Gauss had informed the state department that funds were urgently needed.

President Coolidge approved the request of Admiral Williams for additional reinforcements, although late yesterday he had told callers he believed American forces already on the ground were sufficient to control the situation.

Mr. Coolidge personally called the navy department by telephone at 7:30 o'clock this morning to ascertain the overnight developments.

To Arrive About May 1.

The decision to send an additional regiment of marines indicated that administration officials have little hope that the Chinese situation will clear up in the immediate future. The marines ordered sent today cannot reach China before May 1, at the earliest.

In addition to these reinforcements, three light cruisers, the Marblehead, Cincinnati and Richmond, each with a compliment of thirty-five officers and about 450 men, and six destroyers are now steaming toward China to augment the strength of the Asiatic fleet.

Secretary Kellogg and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur conferred today with Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, leading to some speculation as to whether regular infantrymen may not be sent in addition to the marines.

Wilbur Visits Coolidge.

Secretary Wilbur went to the white house shortly before noon and informed President Coolidge that "all of the Americans are out of Nanking."

Wilbur said the navy's advices indicated only one had been killed, Dr. J. E. Williams, and two wounded, a Miss Moffatt and a Mr. Hobart. His report to the president was based upon a message from Admiral Williams at Shanghai, timed 10:19 p. m., which said:

"Present check gives all Americans have been evacuated from Nanking to the warships. No dead except Dr. Williams. Injured, Miss Moffatt, Mr. Hobart. Final checks will be reported later. Japanese casualties one sailor killed, one member of the consular staff wounded, one civilian wounded. Consulate was rushed by Cantonese soldiers and looted."

Paul H. Bek, county judge; Herman Beckman, Rudolph Nicolaus, William Luebbe, Harry L. Norval.

"Of course Judge Chappell said that before anything had been brought before him," Mr. Reavis added, "and he had a perfect right then to say anything he pleased."

Judge Thomas also asserted that the committee's request is meant as no reflection on Judge Chappell.

Suggest Reid.

County Judge Reid was suggested as a magistrate before whom the preliminary hearing might well be held and the accused officers bound over to District court for trial.

Judge Thomas and Mr. Reavis acted as spokesmen for the committee.

"Suppose you get this before Judge Chappell and he refuses to bind them over," Mr. Reavis suggested. "The people will say it is a frameup."

To Prosecute Vigorously.

"You can rest assured that this case will be prosecuted the same as any others I've handled in the past eight years," Mr. Towle stated. "I've never filed a complaint without the intention of getting my man bound over."

"I've investigated the facts here far better than anyone knows or appreciates."

Mr. Reavis said later that "if I was county attorney, I would file nothing else but manslaughter charges. That was quite sufficient."

United States consul, was still shaken by the ordeal. She told of the flight of Americans including herself and her two children, from the consulate, where Cantonese threatened to kill all foreigners. Mrs. Davis and her children arrived with nothing save the clothes on their backs. She displayed a bottle of cough syrup given her by an officer on the Kungwo saying: "Here's my baggage."

Thursday morning, she related, twenty-three Americans were gathered at the consulate—she and Mr. Davis and their two children, Vice Consul Paxton, six missionary men, a marine officer and eleven marines. The latter had come ashore from the destroyer Noa Tuesday to guard the consulate.

Mr. Davis ordered the marines to put away their arms as he did not want the Cantonese to find an armed guard as it might provoke an attack. He also sent word to Americans concentrated at Nanking university not to try to oppose the soldiers since it might mean death.

Troops Begin Looting.

At 10 a. m., Thursday word was received that Cantonese troops had begun looting. Then it was reported the British and Japanese consuls had been killed and consulates looted. Mr. Davis ordered the men to resume their arms and the party started for Socony hill, which had been designated as the concentration point, with the Stars and Stripes at the head.

Hardly had the party left the consulate when soldiers in nationalist uniforms fired on them. They kept up constant sniping from alleys during the two miles journey to the Socony plant. The Davis children and a girl named Shannon, aged 11, and a boy named Spencer, aged 6, bravely, walked the entire distance without a whimper. Mrs. Davis' voice trembled with pride as she related this portion of the adventure.

She said she reached Socony hill thoroughly exhausted; the men had to help her along. The sniping grew heavier until, when a half mile from the hill, they were almost surrounded. There they took refuge temporarily in a bamboo grove. Three soldiers who followed fifty yards to the rear, fired and hit Private Plumly in the back. He fell, but gamely returned the fire, killing two of his assailants. The other fled.

Gain Socony Station.

The party ran the rest of the way and gained the Socony station, where several Britishers and Americans had already assembled. Women and children were sent upstairs as the men prepared for defense.

Other groups of refugees arrived early in the afternoon, bringing the total to more than fifty. Soldiers in nationalist uniforms began coming to the house in large groups, demanding money and threatening to kill all within.

This occurred several times. Mr. Davis and Earl T. Hobart, Standard Oil manager, risked their lives while facing the soldiers and arguing with them in Chinese. Finally one soldier said to Mr. Davis: "We don't want money. We want to kill; we'll kill all Americans, French, British or any foreigners."

At 3 o'clock the firing, which had kept up through the early afternoon became heavier. Mr. Paxton who had left the party while it was on the way to Socony hill to seek two Kuomingtang (nationalist) friends, returned with them, bearing a Kuomingtang flag. This seemed to enrage the soldiers, who tore down the flag and began attacking the house in earnest, starting to crowd up the entry way and steps. The marines were ordered to arm and prepare to fight.

"A rocket—the agreed signal asking the warships for aid—was sent up," Mr. Davis continued.

"The women and children were all shut in the bathroom, where they lay on the floor, hearing the bullets crashing through windows and whistling over head, meanwhile praying for the ships' barrage to begin. The firing of the soldiers became heavy and the marines replied. It is believed they inflicted heavy casualties.

"My husband then shouted: 'This is the end.' Just then the first shells began bursting around the hill, drawing off the attackers. We breathed again. We seized this chance to escape."

Hasten to City Wall.

Mrs. Davis then told how the party climbed down from the second story using sheets, ropes, curtains and blankets. They hastened to the city wall, which is forty feet high. They climbed the steps on the inside, but had to let each other down on the other side by means of ropes. Mr. Hobart fell twenty feet and broke an ankle.

Beyond the wall a moat had to be crossed; then two miles across open fields. Throughout the trip the party was the target for snipers. The marines aided Private Plumley and Mr. Hobart to reach the river, where the party obtained sampans and set out in the direction of the ships. A British landing party was hailed and they took the refugees aboard the British destroyer Woolsey. Later they were taken aboard the Emerald, where they found Rear Admiral Hough. Mr. Davis went into conference with him.

At 10 o'clock Thursday night Mrs. Davis and her children were placed aboard the Kungwo, which sailed early Friday morning. Mr. Davis remained at Nanking.

The Kungwo and Wenchow, escorted by the United States destroyer Preston and British gunboat Cricket, were fired on at two places along the river. The warships replied. Although the Kungwo is the largest passenger boat on the Yangtze there were many discomforts during the voyage.

Feared the Worst.

Numbers of women psasengers, who had been aboard the destroyers Noa and Preston prior to the shelling, sailed without news of their husbands. They feared the worst, as when they sailed from Nanking the situation was direful, but were much relieved when they learned a majority of the foreigners had been evacuated.

Among those who have reached Shanghai are Mrs. Allen Hutcheson of Houston, Tex., wife of the superintendent of the Nanking university hospital, and her three children.

The Hutcheson party was evacuated early Thursday, being taken in a launch from the bund to the Noa under fire from both sides of the river. They were immediately ordered below. The refugees were in a high pitch of excitement, as they knew it was only a matter of time until the ships would open fire.

At 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon the officer explained to the refugees that the bombardment was soon to begin. He warned them to remain quiet and unafraid.

Preston Opens Fire.

During the bombardment two or three women broke down under the strain. Others displayed fortitude. Children apparently enjoyed themselves, keeping close count of the shots. From refugees who arrived later Mrs. Hutcheson learned her home in Nanking had been looted.

She said that before she went aboard the Noa, anti-foreign fever had been burning among the troops, who did not attack Chinese but threatened to kill every foreigner they met.

She said some foreigners escaped from the city in Chinese clothes. She told how the manager of the bridge house hotel and his wife, dressed in coolie clothes, lay most of the day in a pig sty hearing threats of mobs to kill foreigners.

Coolidge Concerned.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—President Coolidge's concern over the Chinese situation was manifested early this morning when he called the navy department personally for the latest dispatches from Admirals Williams and Hough.

The president got on the telephone shortly after 7:30 a. m., long before the usual machinery of the department was functioning. An officer on the night watch gave him the latest news from the Chinese front.

THE WEATHER.

A body of high pressure and cold air is now over the plains states and the upper Mississippi valley, bringing mostly fair weather with freezing temperatures extending southward to southern Kansas and southern Missouri. The storm area has moved to the great lakes, attended by rain on its southern and snow on its northern side. There was rather heavy snow yesterday and last night in Minnesota and Wisconsin. A trough of low pressure with unsettled and warmer weather overlies the Rocky mountain region, and is expected to extend eastward to Nebraska tonight and Sunday.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 26.

Uncertainty regarding the Chinese situation, together with enlarged export demand for North American shipments, gave a decided upward tilt today to wheat.

Besides, Liverpool wheat quotations were much higher than due. Export sales in all positions were conservatively estimated at 750,000 bushels, but on the other hand, domestic crop reports continued favorable and the weekly weather forecast was also auspicious.

Wheat closed firm, ⅝ to 1c higher; corn, ⅛ to ⅜c down; oats at a shade to ¼c advance, andp rovisions unchanged to 7c decline.

With wheat values here approximating the world level, traders on the buying side of the wheat market showed considerable increase in numbers at times today. Special encouragement for buyers resulted from indications for further good export business wheat and rye as well.

Domestic red winter and hard winter wheat were reported as having been taken to Europe over night. Some red wheat was said to have been sold abroad equal to 10 cents a bushel over Chicago May, f. o. b. Baltimore. More assuring advices also from Minneapolis in regard to cash demand for wheat was construed as reflecting improved inquiry for flour.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat and on short covering. Although the best prices were not maintained on corn, there was a fair class of buying in evidence. The spot corn trading basis was somewhat easier despite smallness of receipts, but eastern seeding of oats was reported as under way in southern Nebraska. The spot oats basis was firmer.

Provisions was dull and slightly easier on account of scattered selling.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Dun's today said:

"On the whole recent gains in several important lines have been well sustained and in some instances extended, though commercial conditions disclosed rather sharp irregulars. Expansion in some directions contracts with continued lassitude in other quarters, while some markets are strong and others are weak. Such phases as these naturally result in conflicting reports on the general situation, but they are not surprising in view of the wide ramifications of business. So far as the principal statistics barometers are concerned, most of these point upward.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 26.

Stocks were dull and irregular in the short session of the stock market today. Profit taking in the speculative leaders was still in evidence, and short selling in the industrial and utility stocks which led Friday's closing rally. Railroad stocks were sidetracked and their place taken by a few of the mercantile and amustment stocks, with Fox Film up about 2½ points on announcement of its purchase of Roxy theatre.

The week-end business reviews emphasized the increase in car loadings and bank clearings as an evidence of business expansion. Retail trade was retarded somewhat by the colder weather prevailing in the midwest. Steel production expended, with the railroad and construction the principal buyers. Commodity prices recorded more declines than advances in a week of featureless developments in this department of business activity.

The stock market continued narrow and professional, with occasional spurts in prices of industrial and specialty stocks in which "moves" were staged earlier in the week. American Telephone & Telegraph resumed the advance which had been interrupted by official denial of any intended split-up in the stock and sold close to its record high of 168. Universal Pipe, Lago Petroleum and All America Cables, which attracted attention earlier in the week, were pushed along the tape, while market favorites like steel common and general motors retired to the background.

Most of the motor stocks declined to a lower range of prices in the second hour. Bearish traders have found the motors in less substantial position than the industrials in general, due to the persistent rumors of price cutting and possible amalgamation of a number of the well known manufacturers. Oil stocks were slightly irregular and copper stocks steady.

The week-end cotton and grain markets were inactive and quiet with narrow price changes. The same was true of the listed and unlisted rubber, sugar and textile market, which marked time in the absence of special developments.

Stocks of the motor and oil companies were the leaders in a moderate rally of prices in the final period. Lago Petroleum sold above 30 on reports of important discoveries in its South American fields, while Pan-American improved nearly 2 points.

Railroad stocks were inactive and industrial fairly steady at the opening today. Atchison sold up 1⅜ at 177, while New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio were fractionally higher. United States Steel was unchanged at 164; Baldwin up ⅜ at 181; American Telephone & Telegraph up ¼ at 165⅛; General Motors down ⅜ at 176¼; General Electric down ⅞ at 84⅜.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, March 26.—(AP)—Crop reports remain distinctly favorable, said one observer, and no real cold weather was in sight, with further rains predicted for the more northern sections.

Sharp declines in wheat futures of late have put American markets in line for export business, this observer says, and there were claims of sales of both winters and springs yesterday. This includes Duluth grain, the first of the latter sold abroad in considerable time.

Late cables brought requests for offers of all grains from abroad. Seaboard had sales og 500,000 to 600,000 bushels of wheat in all positions.

COOLIDGE SEES LARGE SURPLUS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Coolidge understands the treasury surplus for this fiscal year will be considerably in excess of the $200,000,000 previously estimated.

However, the president believes that congress in its prospective tax reduction will determine the amount of surplus in sight for the coming year by business conditions next fall.

While congressional leaders of both parties have tentatively mapped out plans for abolishment of the remaining wartime nuisance taxes and reduction of the corporation levy in the next revenue bill, as yet neither Mr. Coolidge or the treasury is prepared to announce any program for tax reduction.

ing of the American destroyers Noa and Wm. B. Preston is reported to be on the increase. Shanghai is quiet, but some officials believe here ominously so.

In this situation, Admiral Williams deemed reinforcements necessary. He has available now at Shanghai a force of about 1,500 marines, and 1,600 bluejackets available for shore work. In a great emergency he could, of course, use more bluejackets from the ships in the harbor, but to do so would interfere with ship operations

"The situation at Nanking is still serious," said Secretary of State Kellogg.

"We are prepared to do anything and everything for the protection of American lives and property in China."

Red Cross Cables Aid.

The American Red Cross today cabled $10,000 to Shanghai for relief of destitute Americans who were evacuated from Nanking. Consul General Gauss had informed the state department that funds were urgently needed.

President Coolidge approved the request of Admiral Williams for additional reinforcements, although late yesterday he had told callers he believed American forces already on the ground were sufficient to control the situation.

Mr. Coolidge personally called the navy department by telephone at 7:30 o'clock this morning to ascertain the overnight developments.

The decision to send an additional regiment of marines indicated that administration officials have little hope that the Chinese situation will clear up in the immediate future. The marines ordered sent today cannot reach China before May 1, at the earliest.

In addition to these reinforcements, three light cruisers, the Marblehead, Cincinnati and Richmond, each with a compliment of thirty-five officers and about 450 men, and six destroyers are now steaming toward China to augment the strength of the Asiactic fleet.

Secretary Kellogg and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur conferred today with Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, leading to some speculation as to whether regular infantrymen may not be sent in addition to the marines.

Wilbur Visits Coolidge.

Secretary Wilbur went to the white house shortly before noon and informed President Coolidge that "all of the Americans are out of Nanking."

Wilbur said the navy's advices indicated only one had been killed, Dr. J. E. Williams, and two wounded, a Miss Moffatt and a Mr. Hobart. His report to the president was based upon a message from Admiral Williams at Shanghai, timed 10:19 p. m., which said:

"Present check gives all Americans have been evacuated from Nanking to the warships. No dead except Dr. Williams. Injured, Miss Moffatt, Mr. Hobart. Final checks will be reported later. Japanese casualties one sailor killed, one member of the consular staff wounded, one civilian wounded. Consulate was rushed by Cantonese soldiers and looted."

Paul H. Bek, county judge; Herman Beckman, Rudolph Nicolaus, William Luebbe, Harry L. Norval.

"Of course Judge Chappell said that before anything had been brought before him," Mr. Reavis added, "and he had a perfect right then to say anything he pleased."

Suggest Reid.

County Judge Reid was suggested as a magistrate before whom the preliminary hearing might well be held and the accused officers bound over to District court for trial.

Judge Thomas and Mr. Reavis acted as spokesmen for the committee.

"Suppose you get this before Judge Chappell and he refuses to bind them over," Mr. Reavis suggested. "The people will say it is a frameup."

To Prosecute Vigorously.

"You can rest assured that this case will be prosecuted the same as any others I've handled in the past eight years," Mr. Towle stated. "I've never filed a complaint without the intention of getting my man bound over."

"I've investigated the facts here far better than anyone knows or appreciates."

Mr. Reavis said later that "if I was county attorney, I would file nothing else but manslaughter charges. That was quite sufficient."

United States consul, was still shaken by the ordeal. She told of the flight of Americans ,including herself and her two children, from the consulate, where Cantonese threatened to kill all foreigners. Mrs. Davis and her children arrived with nothing save the clothes on their backs. She displayed a bottle of cough syrup given her by an officer on the Kungwo saying: "Here's my baggage."

Thursday morning, she related, twenty-three Americans were gathered at the consulate—she and Mr. Davis and their two children, Vice Consul Paxton, six missionary men, a marine officer and eleven marines. The latter had come ashore from the destroyer Noa Tuesday to guard the consulate.

Mr. Davis ordered the marines to put away their arms as he did not want the Cantonese to find an armed guard as it might provoke an attack. He also sent word to Americans concentrated at Nanking university not to try to oppose the soldiers since it might mean death.

Troops Begin Looting.

At 10 a. m., Thursday word was received that Cantonese troops had begun looting. Then it was reported the British and Japanese consuls had been killed and consulates looted. Mr. Davis ordered the men to resume their arms and the party started for Socony hill, which had been designated as the concentration point, with the Stars and Stripes at the head.

Hardly had the party left the consulate when soldiers in nationist uniforms fired on them. They kept up constant sniping from alleys during the two miles journey to the Socony plant. The Davis children and a girl named Shannon, aged 11, and a boy named Spencer, aged 6, bravely, walked the entire distance without a whimper. Mrs. Davis' voice trembled with pride as she related this portion of the adventure.

She said she reached Socony hill thoroughly exhausted; the men had to help her along. The sniping grew heavier until, when a half mile from the hill, they were almost surrounded. There they took refuge temporarily in a bamboo grove. Three soldiers who followed fifty yards to the rear, fired and hit Private Plumly in the back. He fell, but gamely returned the fire, killing two of his assailants. The other fled.

Gain Socony Station.

The party ran the rest of the way and gained the Socony station, where several Britishers and Americans had already assembled. Women and children were sent upstairs as the men prepared for defense.

Other groups of refugees arrived early in the afternoon, bringing the total to more than fifty. Soldiers in nationalist uniforms began coming to the house in large groups, demanding money and threatening to kill all within.

This occurred several times. Mr. Davis and Earl T. Hobart, Standard Oil manager, risked their lives while facing the soldiers and arguing with them in Chinese. Finally one soldier said to Mr. Davis: "We don't want money. We want to kill; we'll kill all Americans, French, British or any foreigners."

At 3 o'clock the firing, which had kept up through the early afternoon became heavier. Mr. Paxton who had left the party while it was on the way to Socony hill to seek two Kuomingtang (nationalist) friends, returned with them, bearing a Kuomingtang flag. This seemed to enrage the soldiers, who tore down the flag and began attacking the house in earnest, starting to crowd up the entry way and steps. The marines were ordered to arm and prepare to fight.

"A rocket—the agreed signal asking the warships for aid—was sent up," Mr. Davis continued.

"The women and children were all shut in the bathroom, where they lay on the floor, hearing the bullets crashing through windows and whistling over head, meanwhile praying for the ships' barrage to begin. The firing of the soldiers became heavy and the marines replied. It is believed they inflicted heavy casualties.

"Nevertheless the Cantonese forced an entry and began to ascend the stars, seeking foreign women.

"My husband then shouted: 'This is the end.' Just then the first shells began bursting around the hill, drawing off the attackers. We breathed again. We seized this chance to escape."

Hasten to City Wall.

Mrs. Davis then told how the party climbed down from the second story using sheets, ropes, curtains and blankets. They hastened to the city wall, which is forty feet high. They climbed the steps on the inside, but had to let each other down on the other side by means of ropes. Mr. Hobart fell twenty feet and broke an ankle.

Beyond the wall a moat had to be crossed; then two miles across open fields. Throughout the trip the party was the target for snipers. The marines aided Private Plumley and Mr. Hobart to reach the river, where the party obtained sampans and set out in the direction of the ships. A British landing party was hailed and they took the refugees aboard the British destroyer Woolsey. Later they were taken aboard the Emerald, where they found Rear Admiral Hough. Mr. Davis went into conference with him.

At 10 o'clock Thursday night Mrs. Davis and her children were placed aboard the Kungwo, which sailed early Friday morning. Mr. Davis remained at Nanking.

The Kungwo and Wenchow, escorted by the United States destroyer Preston and British gunboat Cricket, were fired on at two places along the river. The warships replied. Although the Kungwo is the largest passenger boat on the Yangtze there were many discomforts during the voyage.

Feared the Worst.

Numbers of women psasengers, who had been aboard the destroyers Noa and Preston prior to the shelling, sailed without news of their husbands. They feared the worst, as when they sailed from Nanking the situation was direful, but were much relieved when they learned a majority of the foreigners had been evacuated.

Among those who have reached Shanghai are Mrs. Allen Hutcheson of Houston, Tex., wife of the superintendent of the Nanking university hospital, and her three children.

The Hutcheson party was evacuated early Thursday, being taken in a launch from the bund to the Noa under fire from both sides of the river. They were immediately ordered below. The refugees were in a high pitch of excitement, as they knew it was only a matter of time until the ships would open fire.

At 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon the officer explained to the refugees that the bombardment was soon to begin. He warned them to remain quiet and unafraid.

Preston Opens Fire.

During the bombardment two or three women broke down under the strain. Others displayed fortitude. Children apparently enjoyed themselves, keeping close count of the shots. From refugees who arrived later Mrs. Hutcheson learned her home in Nanking had been looted.

She said that before she went aboard the Noa, anti-foreign fever had been burning among the troops, who did not attack Chinese but threatened to kill every foreigner they met.

She said some foreigners escaped from the city in Chinese clothes. She told how the manager of the bridge house hotel and his wife, dressed in coolie clothes, lay most of the day in a pig sty hearing threats of mobs to kill foreigners.

Coolidge Concerned.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—President Coolidge's concern over the Chinese situation was manifested early this morning when he called the navy department personally for the latest dispatches from Admirals Williams and Hough.

The president got on the telephone shortly after 7:30 a. m., long before the usual machinery of the department was functioning. An officer on the night watch gave him the latest news from the Chinese front.

THE WEATHER.

A body of high pressure and cold air is now over the plains states and the upper Mississippi valley, bringing mostly fair weather with freezing temperatures extending southward to southern Kansas and southern Missouri. The storm area has moved to the great lakes, attended by rain on its southern and snow on its northern side. There was rather heavy snow yesterday and last night in Minnesota and Wisconsin. A trough of low pressure with unsettled and warmer weather overlies the Rocky mountain region, and is expected to extend eastward to Nebraska tonight and Sunday.

Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Atlanta Phenom Takes Lead In Southern Open

Georgia Dazzler Present With Performance of Super Golf; Has Margin of Six Strokes Over Best of the Professionals; Final Round of 36 Holes on Book Today.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—Owing to one thing and another, mostly the latter, the dash for the East Lake club house at eventide today will be run in two heats in order to accommodate everyone concerned, which will not be too many at that. The first heat will be purely an exhibition by Robert T. Jones, Atlanta's own. He will demonstrate over the final 36 holes just how a southern open golf championship should and will be won.

The second heat would be comparatively unimportant, if anyone really could get around to the matter of considering $12,500 in that rather whimsical light. It will feature all of the surviving professionals in stampede toward whatever may be left when Mr. Jones, the amateur, gets through.

Worth Something to Lose.

Mr. Jones, being an amateur, has no use for money; so all he will take is the title, while the pros will take a beating and the cash, ranging in seriousness from $4,000 for first to $50 for thirtieth.

This arrangement, at first blush, might seem a bit premature, considering the fact that only half of the required distance has been covered, yet the scores this morning show Jones with 138 strokes; Johnny Farrell and W. H. Livie with 143; John Golden, George Voight and Larry Nabholtz with 145; Clarence Hackney and Al Watrous with 146; Bill Mehlhorn with 147; and the rest of them with severe pains in the neck-pand.

Question of Plain Facts.

The situation, therefore, resolves itself into a mere question of fact over fancy and everyone knows that you can't go behind facts any more than you ca ngo behind a strange bar; that is, not without a punch on the nose.

The facts, therefore, are briefly these: Mr. Jones has 138 for half the distance; it is conceded that 290 will win the title. Therefore, if Mr. Jones requires all of two 76s today, which he will not, the title would be his anyhow. The betting, however, is even that Mr. Jones will break 70 on at least one of his rounds today.

Poor But Honest Pro.

Therefore, it may be seemly to forget Mr. Jones forthwith and demember the poor but honest professionals.

Farrell and Livie hold the strategic position for the final sortie against the $4,000 first prize, but Johnny is just recovering from an illness and Livie, a public course m from Cleveland, lacks tournament experience; so either or both may fail to last.

Voight is an amateur, which leaves Nabholtz and Golden the next heirs apparent, with Hackney and Watrous crowding close and Mehlhorn only four strokes back of the professional leaders.

Free-For-All Finish.

The situation makes for a ding-dong finish and, as far as that goes, a couple of low 70s from any of the 148 men —Eddie Towns, Bobby Cruickshank, Freddie McLeod, Jim Foulis, Emmett French, Willie Klein and Jim Tohmpson—might very well take the play away from those in front.

Joe Turnesa, Harry Hampton, Charley Manning and Joe Devany, tied at 149, are just a bit too far out of focus to be figured too seriously for first prize, which gives the low-down on the chances of Jock Hutchinson, Leo Diegel, Tom Armour and Mike Brady, too. They are tied at 150.

As for that Debonair main about sand traps, Walt Hagen, he is tied at 151 with a lot of casual strangers and will have to shoot two 70s to even make it close.

Concede First to Bobby.

ATLANTA, a., March 26.—(AP)—There was a disposition among the professionals in the southern open in its final phase today to let Bobby Jones go ahead in his rush to the top while the men who earn their living playing golf concentrate on getting in the prize division. Jones was five strokes in front at the start of the third round, due to a sensational 66 in the second round yesterday. His total of 138 was five strokes lower than Farrell and Livie, tied for second.

Does No Boasting.

Jones had little to say after his great round. "I was hitting my shots well," was the extent of his comment.

The field was cut from 161 to 68 for the final 36 holes today. Rules provided for elimination for all but the low 64, but ties at 156, the last qualifying figures, enabled 68 to crowd into the final test. Five amateurs were in the list—Bobby Jones, Jess Sweetser, George Voight, Watts Gunn and Charles Black.

If an amateur wins he will be given a trophy, while the first pro will receive $4,000. Twenty-nine other money prizes will be distributed ranging from $2,000 to $50, the purse totaling $12,000.

Former champions were not in most favorable positions today. Willie MacFarlane was barely in the competition with 156, Gene Sarazen had 148, Jim Barnes and Cyril Walker 152 and Walter Hagen 151.

Last Night's Fights.

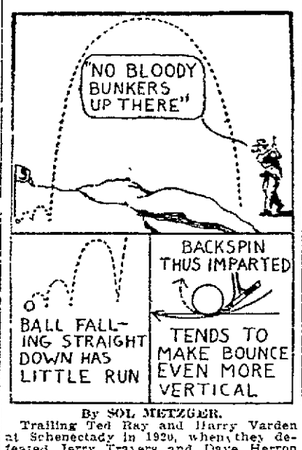
High Approach Safe Shot Says Ted Ray



By SOL METZGER.

Trailing Ted Ray and Harry Varden at Schenectady in 1920, when they defeated Jerry Travers and Dave Herron in an exhibition match, one up, I was so impressed by Ray's high approach shots, even when no traps intervened, that I asked him later why he played them to high. "There are no bloody bunkers up there," was his terse reply.

That's a good tip to remember when playing your rounds. If you take the time to figure out the best approach shot to attempt you'll come to Ray's conclusion for these reasons: 1. A high pitch has little forward run on alighting. 2. It clears all traps, bunkers and uneven surfaces that often exist on the fairways. 3. If you play it with backspin (and few high shots with approaching irons can be made without imparting "stop" or backspin), the ball is bound to hold close to where it alights.

INDIAN RUNNERS DO THEIR STUFF

TEXANS FETE INDIANS.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—Two Tarahumara Indians, Jose Torres and Thomas Zafiro, were being feted here today following their cross-country run from San Antonio to Austin, a distance of 88 miles, in the remarkable time of 14 hours and 47 minutes.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—(AP)—Unable to understand the white man's interest in athletes able to run more than 80 miles with little outward indication of fatigue, six Tarahumara Indians rested here today satisfied with having upheld tribal traditions in a marathon which featured the Texas university relays.

Although but two of the three Indian youths and only one of the trio of dusky maidens of high school age finished their respective 89 and 28 miles grinds yesterday, the others admitted defeat only after unusual exhibitions of endurance.

Came Close to Record.

Tomas Zafiro, 38, senior athlete from Sierra Madres mountains of Mexico, and Jose Torres, 24-year-old star from a rival village, covered the 89.4 mile course from San Antonio to Austin in 14 hours 53 minutes.

In reaching the 82-mile mark in 13 hours and 30 minutes, they were within about ten minutes of the only recognized record for the distance, established by J. Saunders of New York, 45 years ago.

Girl Does Marathon.

Lola Cuzarare, 14, demonstrated the stamina of Tarahumara women when she finished the 28½ mile course for the women in 4 hours 56 minutes. Juanita, her 16-year married sister, was forced out within sight of the goal. The pavement proved too hot for Juanita Pacienca, 15, who ran 26 miles before giving up.

The men's race was scheduled as 82 miles, but the route used to the university stadium increased the distance more than seven miles. An error in measurement caused the women to run further than the regulation 26 miles planned.

FRENCH REPEAT TENNIS VICTORY

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—America was shut out of the national indoor tennis finals for the second successive year yesterday when Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of France swept into the championship round by decisive, straight set victories.

Borotra battered down the resistance of Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., 7-5, 7-5, and Brugnon stroked his way through the defense of John Van Ryn, Princeton university, 6-4, 6-1. Borotra and Brugnon will meet in the finals today.

MANAGER BEARS DOWN AT ORANGE

Cowell, Young Shortstop, Showing Class In His Position.

ORANGE, Tex., March 26.—(Special)—Although Manager Johnny Lavan and his Lincoln Links are booked up for an afternoon encounter with a semi-pro outfit from Port Arthur, the leader of the aggregation from the capital city of Nebraska escorted his gang to the local ball yard for a morning practice. Weather conditions were favorable, although a bank of clouds came rolling up from the gulf toward the noon hour, giving a threat of rain during the afternoon.

The workouts of the Lavan crew have been coming along smoothly and satisfactorily, the injury jinx having been pleasingly absent to date. The manager had nine pitchers exercising their salary wings this morning, but not one of the bunch was permitted to turn on full steam.

Ex-Blues On Mound.

The three young pitchers acquired from the Kansas City Blues have had more practice than any other fingers with the Lavan squad and the manager probably send the trio against the Port Arthur crowd this afternoon.

Cowell, the former Baker university shortstop, sent to the Links by Dutch Zwilling, pilot of the Blues, is performing brilliantly during the fielding workouts and Lavan today reiterated his belief that Don Rader rated as regular short-fielder, will have to be a ball player of the real sort to beat Cowell out of the job.

Shoots at First Corner.

Carl Shoots probably will cover the first sack this afternoon, with Lavan at second, Cowell at short and Gottleber at third. Hruska and Lorber will divide time back of the plate and Bliss, Hughes and Rueddy are slated to show off in the garden.

After a Sunday game with the Port Arthur crowd, Manager Lavan plans to do some wielding of his axe, which means that a string of youngsters will be cast adrift.

WIDE TRIES FOR 2-MILE RECORD

Swedish Distance Star All Set to Bid for New Mark.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Undaunted by his failure to equal the speed of Lloyd Hahn over the one-mile route, Edvin Wide, Swedish distance star, will attempt to crack the two-mile indoor record at the United Swedish charities track meet in Madison Square Garden tonight

To break Paavo Nurmi's record of 8 minutes 58 1-5 seconds, Wide has set a time schedule for the quarters. He will meet Willie Ritola, who defeated him four times in foreign engagements, and Willie Goodwin of New York A. C., national indoor champion at the distance.

Wide hopes to run two miles in 8:57. He expects to step the first half-mile in 2:09, the mile in 4:27, the mile and a half in 6:45 and still have enough left to complete the distance more than a second faster than Nurmi did.

On the same card with the man he conquered, Hahn will attampt to efface the world mark of 2:29 3-5 for the 1,000 meter run, Jie Ray's last surviving indoor record.

In order to set a new high jump record, an athlete must meditate over mathematics and be cognizant of calculus, according to Anton Burg, captain of the University of Chicago track team. He declares that mass and momentum must be considered and computed. Then there is the distance to be traveled, the angle of the approach, the change of angle as the bar gradually is raised and the computation of the center of gravity and the manner of maintaining it while hurtling through the air.

Fights Tonight.

By AL DEMAREE.

Two great golfers who competed in the North-South tournament at Pinehurst, stand out prominently among the winners of fame and fortune in the winter season. They are Bobby Cruickshank and Gene Sarazen, both small men with a striking similarity of stature

From the monetary angle, Cruickshank's triumphs in the $10,000 Los Angeles open, the Texas open at San Antonio and the south central open have overshadowed Sarazen's victories in the Miami and the Miami Beach open.

The little Scotchman would be even a bigger winner, but like many ball players in former world series, who pooled their share with a player on the opposing club, Bobby pooled his winnings this winter with Johnny Golden, which was a good gamble for Golden, who only furnished about one-tenth of the common "pot."

The wee Scotchman has a good sense of humor. During the match between Hagen and himself at Orlando, Fla., I asked him how to overcome the habit of topping a golf ball.

TEXAS LEAGUERS SMOTHER "RODS"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26—(A. P.)—Exhibiting weakness at the plate, Omaha's Western league team offered little competition to the San Antonio nine Friday afternoon and the Texans romped away with a 6 to 1 decision.

Fair Golfers Bid For Glenna's Title

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—(AP)—With opinion divided as to the likelihood of some youngster overcoming veterans of the links, 16 fair golfers were paired off today for first round of match play in the annual north and south women's tournament.

The players, ten from the east, five from the middle west and one from the south are those who survived out of more than a hundred entries in the qualifying round.

Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago and Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., are conceded the best chance of the youngsters to overcome the experience of Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., former national champion, and Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., north and south champion, both veterans

Miss Collett yesterday, as a year ago, led the field in the medal play that determined the 16 who would make up the first flight of match play. She scored an 82 for the 18-hole qualifying round, two strokes ahead of Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa.

Today Mrs John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., who has won every tournament in which she has played here except the north and south, for the last two seasons, meets Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosn, Wis.

CATLIN REMAINS LUTHERAN MENTOR

FREMONT, Neb., March 26.—Efforts of Coach Joe Catlin of Midland and the Chamber of Commerce promotion committee were being directed today to heal over the sore spots that apparently had come from what was termed the "ill advised" publicity given the plans for securing the services of Coach Chett Wynne of Creighton.

It was admitted by the Chamber ommittee that the plan for obtaining Wynne had received favorable consideration, but it was flatly denied that any effort had been made to force the college committee to adopt such a program.

Believing that the obtaining Wynne would be a "good stunt" for athletics for Fremont, as well as for Midland, the proposition of having Wynne at a salary of $2,600 for part-time services only, was broached to President Martin of Midland.

Chairman Wilson Reynolds of the Chamber of Commerce promotion committee declared that the whole business would be dropped and that Midland would be allowed to do as it pleased, as it has always been allowed to do.

"We wanted to give some friendly co-operation," Reynolds said. "It is our attitude to do this."

MEDALS AWARDED NELSON TOSSERS

NELSON, Neb., March 26.—Nelson high school athletes formally closed the season of basketball with a rousing "pep" meeting at the high school assembly. There were a number of short talks by members of the faculty and several of the players.

The Nelson high "letter" men as they are called were given medals this year instead of letters. To earn these medals the men had to play at least fourteen quarters during the year. Those receiving medals are: Earl Benjamin, Ralph Benjamin, James Bargen, Chester Bargen, Chapman, Ely, Hutchinson, Hummell, Jones, Klugherz, Lockwood, Lamb, Petz, Roby, Snyder and Wade.

Tunney Planning Tour of Europe.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(A. P.)—Gene Tunney will sail for England May 15 to box an exhibition in London about May 30. He plans to return June 15 to enter training for his first title defense, scheduled in September.

TAYLOR, TONY IN PINK FOR FIGHT

Hoosier Boy and Gotham Opponent Both In Tip-Top Trim.

CHICAGO, March 26.—A bantamweight champion satisfactory to the conflicting shades of boxing-commission opinion should emerge tonight from the 10-round melee scheduled at the Coliseum. It brings together Bud Taylor, recognized in Illinois and 18 other states, as the world's bantamweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, recognized as such in New York and points east.

They will box at 118 pounds to a judges' decision. Both fighters completed training in first class shape, no injured hands, cut lips or other convenient ailments that make good "after the battle" alibis. They weigh in at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The odds of 7 to 5 on Taylor that prevailed during the early days of training have been hammered down to even money. A raft of eastern currency is reported going begging today for takers on even terms.

Spring Football Game Called Off

The spring football game, scheduled for Saturday, was called off by Coach Ernest E Bearge when a crop of practice injuries made the scrimmage inadvisable The active spring training campaign is scheduled to close at the University of Nebraska next Friday afternoon

The condition of Clarence Busby, injured Husker gridster was reported Saturday morning as much improved.

"Jug" Brown Cornhusker captain, also is on the injured list Brown may undergo an operation in several weeks. A series of x-ray pictures indicates Brown has a floating cartilage as a result of a knee injury received in baseball last summer.

PUTS IT OVER ON PROMOTER 'TEX'

Fugazy Grabs Bout That Rickard Felt Sure Was in Bag.

NEW YORK, March 26. — When the New York state athletic commission meets next Tuesday, it will be asked by Promoter Humbert Fugazy to approve the match between Pete Latzo, welterweight champion, and Joe Dundee of Baltimore. A rival promoter, one T. Rickard, claims he has Dundee under contract for the bout.

Both Latzo and Dundee have signed with Fugazy.

Paolino Acting Up.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight, has succumbed to the "Jack Dempsey complex" and, as a consequence, promoter Tex Rickard has a severe headache today. Paolino refuses to sign for a match with Jack Delaney, light-heavyweight champion, unless he is assured of a match with Dempsey in the heavyweight tournament.

If Paolino fails to dispose of Tom Heeney, the Australian, in their bout here next Friday night, he will not be signed for either match.

ATHLETES ACTIVE IN SPRING WORK AT SCOTTSBLUFF

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., March 26.—Coach Sid Hoadley has good-sized track and football squads in suit at Scottsbluff high school this spring, although a heavy snow has handicapped early work in each sport.

The Scottsbluff high squad this season includes Bailey, fleet sprinter and one of the leading men in high school track this season. Other veterans back are Vanderhoof, hurdles and weights; Wallace, low hurdles and dashes; Dormann and Hunt, weights; Albro, high hurdles; Graves, mile; Bonhert, half-mile.

The interclass meet will be held April 15 and the western conference meet, May 6.

Coach Hoadley has thirty candidates out for spring football. The group lacks experience, as Scottsbluff loses 14 letter men by graduation next spring. Only two regulars and three subs from the 1926 squad will return. Captain Hunt of the '26 team is dividing his time between football and track.

St. Louis Cardinals.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 26.—Babe Ruth was due to jump into the lineup with the Yankees in this afternoon's pastime with the Cardinals. The Yanks had been Ruthless for several days, due to the Babe's impaired ankle. The Cards won yesterday, 9 to 6, from the Phillies.

Atlanta Phenom Takes Lead In Southern Open

Georgia Dazzler Present With Performance of Super Golf; Has Margin of Six Strokes Over Best of the Professionals; Final Round of 36 Holes on Book Today.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—Owing to one thing and another, mostly the latter, the dash for the East Lake club house at eventide today will be run in two heats in order to accommodate everyone concerned, which will not be too many at that. The first heat will be purely an exhibition by Robert T. Jones, Atlanta's own. He will demonstrate over the final 36 holes just how a southern open golf championship should and will be won.

The second heat would be comparatively unimportant, if anyone really could get around to the matter of considering $12,500 in that rather whimsical light. It will feature all of the surviving professionals in stampede toward whatever may be left when Mr. Jones, the amateur, gets through.

Worth Something to Lose.

Mr. Jones, being an amateur, has no use for money; so all he will take is the title, while the pros will take a beating and the cash, ranging in seriousness from $4,000 for first to $50 for thirtieth.

This arrangement, at first blush, might seem a bit premature, considering the fact that only half of the required distance has been covered, yet the scores this morning show Jones with 138 strokes; Johnny Farrell and W. H. Livie with 143; John Golden, George Voight and Larry Nabholtz with 145; Clarence Hackney and Al Watrous with 146; Bill Mehlhorn with 147; and the rest of them with severe pains in the neck-band.

Question of Plain Facts.

The situation, therefore, resolves itself into a mere question of fact over fancy and everyone knows that you can't go behind facts any more than you can go behind a strange bar; that is, not without a punch on the nose.

The facts, therefore, are briefly these: Mr. Jones has 138 for half the distance; it is conceded that 290 will win the title. Therefore, if Mr. Jones requires all of two 76s today, which he will not, the title would be his anyhow. The betting, however, is even that Mr. Jones will break 70 on at least one of his rounds today.

Poor But Honest Pro.

Therefore, it may be seemly to forget Mr. Jones forthwith and demember the poor but honest professionals.

Farrell and Livie hold the strategic position for the final sortie against the $4,000 first prize, but Johnny is just recovering from an illness and Livie, a public course man from Cleveland, lacks tournament experience; so either or both may fad to last.

Free-For-All Finish.

The situation makes for a ding-dong finish and, as far as that goes, a couple of low 70s from any of the 148 men —Eddie Towns, Bobby Cruickshank, Freddie McLeod, Jim Foulis, Emmett French, Willie Klein and Jim Tohmpson—might very well take the play away from those in front.

Joe Turnesa, Harry Hampton, Charley Manning and Joe Devany, tied at 149, are just a bit too far out of focus to be figured too seriously for first prize, which gives the low-down on the chances of Jock Hutchinson, Leo Diegel, Tom Armour and Mike Brady, too. They are tied at 150.

As for that Debonair main about sand traps, Walt Hagen, he is tied at 151 with a lot of casual strangers and will have to shoot two 70s to even make it close.

Concede First to Bobby.

ATLANTA, a., March 26.—(AP)—There was a disposition among the professionals in the southern open in its final phase today to let Bobby Jones go ahead in his rush to the top while the men who earn their living playing golf concentrate on getting in the prize division. Jones was five strokes in front at the start of the third round, due to a sensational 66 in the second round yesterday. His total of 138 was five strokes lower than Farrell and Livie, tied for second.

Bobby Cruickshank, one of the pros in the winter campaign in California, Texas, Arkansas and Florida, summed up the situation: 'Bobby seems to have won the tournament. We can go out now and shoot for the money."

Does No Boasting.

Jones had little to say after his great round. "I was hitting my shots well," was the extent of his comment.

The field was cut from 161 to 68 for the final 36 holes today. Rules provided for elimination for all but the low 64, but ties at 156, the last qualifying figures, enabled 68 to crowd into the final test. Five amateurs were in the list—Bobby Jones, Jess Sweetser, George Voight, Watts Gunn and Charles Black.

If an amateur wins he will be given a trophy, while the first pro will receive $4,000. Twenty-nine other money prizes will be distributed ranging from $2,000 to $50, the purse totaling $12,000.

Former champions were not in most favorable positions today. Willie MacFarlane was barely in the competition with 156, Gene Sarazen had 148, Jim Barnes and Cyril Walker 152 and Walter Hagen 151.

Last Night's Fights.

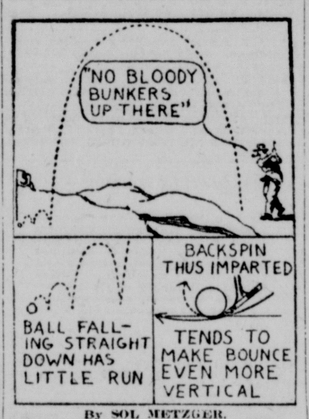
High Approach Safe Shot Says Ted Ray



By SOL METZGER.

Trailing Ted Ray and Harry Varden at Schenectady in 1920, when they defeated Jerry Travers and Dave Herron in an exhibition match, one up, I was so impressed by Ray's high approach shots, even when no traps intervened, that I asked him later why he played them to high. "There are no bloody bunkers up there," was his terse reply.

That's a good tip to remember when playing your rounds. If you take the time to figure out the best approach shot to attempt you'll come to Ray's conclusion for these reasons: 1. A high pitch has little forward run on alighting. 2. It clears all traps, bunkers and uneven surfaces that often exist on the fairways. 3. If you play it with backspin (and few high shots with approaching irons can be made without imparting "stop" or backspin), the ball is bound to hold close to where it alights.

INDIAN RUNNERS DO THEIR STUFF

TEXANS FETE INDIANS.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—Two Tarahumara Indians, Jose Torres and Thomas Zafiro, were being feted here today following their cross-country run from San Antonio to Austin, a distance of 88 miles, in the remarkable time of 14 hours and 47 minutes.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 26.—(AP)—Unable to understand the white man's interest in athletes able to run more than 80 miles with little outward indication of fatigue, six Tarahumara Indians rested here today satisfied with having upheld tribal traditions in a marathon which featured the Texas university relays.

Although but two of the three Indian youths and only one of the trio of dusky maidens of high school age finished their respective 89 and 28 miles grinds yesterday, the others admitted defeat only after unusual exhibitions of endurance.

Came Close to Record.

Tomas Zafiro, 38, senior athlete from Sierra Madres mountains of Mexico, and Jose Torres, 24-year-old star from a rival village, covered the 89.4 mile course from San Antonio to Austin in 14 hours 53 minutes.

In reaching the 82-mile mark in 13 hours and 30 minutes, they were within about ten minutes of the only recognized record for the distance, established by J. Saunders of New York, 45 years ago.

Girl Does Marathon.

Lola Cuzarare, 14, demonstrated the stamina of Tarahumara women when she finished the 28½ mile course for the women in 4 hours 56 minutes. Juanita, her 16-year married sister, was forced out within sight of the goal. The pavement proved too hot for Juanita Pacienca, 15, who ran 26 miles before giving up.

The men's race was scheduled as 82 miles, but the route used to the university stadium increased the distance more than seven miles. An error in measurement caused the women to run further than the regulation 26 miles planned.

FRENCH REPEAT TENNIS VICTORY

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—America was shut out of the national indoor tennis finals for the second successive year yesterday when Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of France swept into the championship round by decisive, straight set victories.

Slashing and spectacular fore court raids carried both European Davis cup stars through the semi-finals.

Borotra battered down the resistance of Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., 7-5, 7-5, and Brugnon stroked his way through the defense of John Van Ryn, Princeton university, 6-4, 6-1. Borotra and Brugnon will meet in the finals today.

MANAGER BEARS DOWN AT ORANGE

Cowell, Young Shortstop, Showing Class In His Position.

ORANGE, Tex., March 26.—(Special)—Although Manager Johnny Lavan and his Lincoln Links are booked up for an afternoon encounter with a semi-pro outfit from Port Arthur, the leader of the aggregation from the capital city of Nebraska escorted his gang to the local ball yard for a morning practice. Weather conditions were favorable, although a bank of clouds came rolling up from the gulf toward the noon hour, giving a threat of rain during the afternoon.

The workouts of the Lavan crew have been coming along smoothly and satisfactorily, the injury jinx having been pleasingly absent to date. The manager had nine pitchers exercising their salary wings this morning, but not one of the bunch was permitted to turn on full steam.

Ex-Blues On Mound.

The three young pitchers acquired from the Kansas City Blues have had more practice than any other flingers with the Lavan squad and the manager probably send the trio against the Port Arthur crowd this afternoon.

Cowell, the former Baker university shortstop, sent to the Links by Dutch Zwilling, pilot of the Blues, is performing brilliantly during the fielding workouts and Lavan today reiterated his belief that Don Rader rated as regular short-fielder, will have to be a ball player of the real sort to beat Cowell out of the job.

Shoots at First Corner.

Carl Shoots probably will cover the first sack this afternoon, with Lavan at second, Cowell at short and Gottleber at third. Hruska and Lorber will divide time back of the plate and Bliss, Hughes and Rueddy are slated to show off in the garden.

After a Sunday game with the Port Arthur crowd, Manager Lavan plans to do some wielding of his axe, which means that a string of youngsters will be cast adrift.

WIDE TRIES FOR 2-MILE RECORD

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Undaunted by his failure to equal the speed of Lloyd Hahn over the one-mile route, Edvin Wide, Swedish distance star, will attempt to crack the two-mile indoor record at the United Swedish charities track meet in Madison Square Garden tonight.

To break Paavo Nurmi's record of 8 minutes 58 1-5 seconds, Wide has set a time schedule for the quarters. He will meet Willie Ritola, who defeated him four times in foreign engagements, and Willie Goodwin of New York A. C., national indoor champion at the distance.

Wide hopes to run two miles in 8:57. He expects to step the first half-mile in 2:09, the mile in 4:27, the mile and a half in 6:45 and still have enough left to complete the distance more than a second faster than Nurmi did.

On the same card with the man he conquered, Hahn will attampt to efface the world mark of 2:29 3-5 for the 1,000 meter run, Jie Ray's last surviving indoor record.

In order to set a new high jump record, an athlete must meditate over mathematics and be cognizant of calculus, according to Anton Burg, captain of the University of Chicago track team. He declares that mass and momentum must be considered and computed. Then there is the distance to be traveled, the angle of the approach, the change of angle as the bar gradually is raised and the computation of the center of gravity and the manner of maintaining it while hurtling through the air.

Fights Tonight.

By AL DEMAREE.

Two great golfers who competed in the North-South tournament at Pinehurst, stand out prominently among the winners of fame and fortune in the winter season. They are Bobby Cruickshank and Gene Sarazen, both small men with a striking similarity of stature.

From the monetary angle, Cruickshank's triumphs in the $10,000 Los Angeles open, the Texas open at San Antonio and the south central open have overshadowed Sarazen's victories in the Miami and the Miami Beach open.

The little Scotchman would be even a bigger winner, but like many ball players in former world series, who pooled their share with a player on the opposing club, Bobby pooled his winnings this winter with Johnny Golden, which was a good gamble for Golden, who only furnished about one-tenth of the common "pot."

The wee Scotchman has a good sense of humor. During the match between Hagen and himself at Orlando, Fla., I asked him how to overcome the habit of topping a golf ball.

TEXAS LEAGUERS SMOTHER "RODS"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26—(A. P.)—Exhibiting weakness at the plate, Omaha's Western league team offered little competition to the San Antonio nine Friday afternoon and the Texans romped away with a 6 to 1 decision.

Fair Golfers Bid For Glenna's Title

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—(AP)—With opinion divided as to the likelihood of some youngster overcoming veterans of the links, 16 fair golfers were paired off today for first round of match play in the annual north and south women's tournament.

The players, ten from the east, five from the middle west and one from the south, are those who survived out of more than a hundred entries in the qualifying round.

Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago and Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., are conceded the best chance of the youngsters to overcome the experience of Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., former national champion, and Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., north and south champion, both veterans.

Miss Collett yesterday, as a year ago, led the field in the medal play that determined the 16 who would make up the first flight of match play. She scored an 82 for the 18-hole qualifying round, two strokes ahead of Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa.

Today Mrs. John D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., who has won every tournament in which she has played here except the north and south, for the last two seasons, meets Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosn, Wis.

CATLIN REMAINS LUTHERAN MENTOR

FREMONT, Neb., March 26.—Efforts of Coach Joe Catlin of Midland and the Chamber of Commerce promotion committee were being directed today to heal over the sore spots that apparently had come from what was termed the "ill advised" publicity given the plans for securing the services of Coach Chett Wynne of Creighton.

It was admitted by the Chamber ommittee that the plan for obtaining Wynne had received favorable consideration, but it was flatly denied that any effort had been made to force the college committee to adopt such a program.

Believing that the obtaining Wynne would be a "good stunt" for athletics for Fremont, as well as for Midland, the proposition of having Wynne at a salary of $2,600 for part-time services only, was broached to President Martin of Midland.

Chairman Wilson Reynolds of the Chamber of Commerce promotion committee declared that the whole business would be dropped and that Midland would be allowed to do as it pleased, as it has always been allowed to do.

MEDALS AWARDED NELSON TOSSERS

NELSON, Neb., March 26. —Nelson high school athletes formally closed the season of basketball with a rousing "pep" meeting at the high school assembly. There were a number of short talks by members of the faculty and several of the players.

The Nelson high "letter" men as they are called were given medals this year instead of letters. To earn these medals the men had to play at least fourteen quarters during the year. Those receiving medals are: Earl Benjamin, Ralph Benjamin, James Bargen, Chester Bargen, Chapman, Ely, Hutchinson, Hummell, Jones, Klugherz, Lockwood, Lamb, Petz, Roby, Snyder and Wade.

Tunney Planning Tour of Europe.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(A. P.)—Gene Tunney will sail for England May 15 to box an exhibition in London about May 30. He plans to return June 15 to enter training for his first title defense, scheduled in September.

TAYLOR, TONY IN PINK FOR FIGHT

Hoosier Boy and Gotham Opponent Both In Tip-Top Trim.

CHICAGO, March 26.—A bantamweight champion satisfactory to the conflicting shades of boxing-commission opinion should emerge tonight from the 10-round melee scheduled at the Coliseum. It brings together Bud Taylor, recognized in Illinois and 18 other states, as the world's bantamweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, recognized as such in New York and points east.

They will box at 118 pounds to a judges' decision. Both fighters completed trining in first class shape, no injured hands, cut lips or other convenient ailments that make good "after the battle" alibis. They weigh in at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The odds of 7 to 5 on Taylor that prevailed during the early days of training have been hammered down to even money. A raft of eastern currency is reported going begging today for takers on even terms.

Spring Football Game Called Off

The spring football game, scheduled for Saturday, was called off by Coach Ernest E. Bearge when a crop of practice injuries made the scrimmage inadvisable. The active spring training campaign is scheduled to close at the University of Nebraska next Friday afternoon.

The condition of Clarence Busby, injured Husker gridster was reported Saturday morning as much improved.

"Jug" Brown Cornhusker captain, also is on the injured list. Brown may undergo an operation in several weeks. A series of x-ray pictures indicates Brown has a floating cartilage as a result of a knee injury received in baseball last summer.

Fugazy Grabs Bout That Rickard Felt Sure Was in Bag.

NEW YORK, March 26. — When the New York state athletic commission meets next Tuesday, it will be asked by Promoter Humbert Fugazy to approve the match between Pete Latzo, welterweight champion, and Joe Dundee of Baltimore. A rival promoter, one T. Rickard, claims he has Dundee under contract for the bout.

Both Latzo and Dundee have signed with Fugazy.

Paolino Acting Up.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight, has succumbed to the "Jack Dempsey complex" and, as a consequence, promoter Tex Rickard has a severe headache today. Paolino refuses to sign for a match with Jack Delaney, light-heavyweight champion, unless he is assured of a match with Dempsey in the heavyweight tournament.

If Paolino fails to dispose of Tom Heeney, the Australian, in their bout here next Friday night, he will not be signed for either match.

ATHLETES ACTIVE IN SPRING WORK AT SCOTTSBLUFF

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., March 26.—Coach Sid Hoadley has good-sized track and football squads in suit at Scottsbluff high school this spring, although a heavy snow has handicapped early work in each sport.

The Scottsbluff high squad this season includes Bailey, fleet sprinter and one of the leading men in high school track this season. Other veterans back are Vanderhoof, hurdles and weights; Wallace, low hurdles and dashes; Dormann and Hunt, weights; Albro, high hurdles; Graves, mile; Bonhert, half-mile.

The interclass meet will be held April 15 and the western conference meet, May 6.

Coach Hoadley has thirty candidates out for spring football. The group lacks experience, as Scottsbluff loses 14 letter men by graduation next spring. Only two regulars and three subs from the 1926 squad will return. Captain Hunt of the '26 team is dividing his time between football and track.

New York Yankees.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 26.—The "spring world's series" began here today when the New York Yankees met the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals in the first of nine games. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 26.—The Boston Braves picked one out of the fire from the Browns yesterday when, after two down in the ninth, they started a batting rally that shoved over three runs to win, 4 to 3. George Sisler dropped the ball that would have made the third out.

St. Louis Cardinals.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 26.—Babe Ruth was due to jump into the lineup with the Yankees in this afternoon's pastime with the Cardinals. The Yanks had been Ruthless for several days, due to the Babe's impaired ankle. The Cards won yesterday, 9 to 6, from the Phillies.

Huge Sport Stadium Planned for Chicago.

This is an architect's drawing of the $5,000,000 civic auditorium proposed to be constructed in the heart of Chicago's west side. Sporting events were expected to be the great attraction, but other events would be staged there. It would seat 26,000 persons.
